Yesterday's temperature waxed warmer in Pittsburgh than the average citizen anticipated when he arose in the morning and sniffed the raw air. The maximum was 70 degrees at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, though the cool breeze made overcoats comfortable all day. Rain fell in this city, though at points west and south of here there were heavy rains or snow. The official forecast makes rain possible today, however, and assures a wave of colder weather by tonight.

LEADERS AT WASHINGTON PREDICT A CLEAN SWEEP

Republican Forecasters Figure Out Good Off-Year Majorities in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

SENATOR QUAY QUOTES FIGURES FOR THIS STATE

Places State Majority at 60,000 to 100,000 and Thinks Allegheny County Good for 18,000 of That—Battles in Other States Watched With Interest from the National Capital. Ohio Expected to Show Up Well.

The Gazette Bureau, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W., Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.

"Republican victories all along the line, with one or two exceptions," is the tenor of the political advices received here today from the states which will hold important local elections Tuesday. Although this is a decided off year politically, a great deal of interest is felt in the battle of the ballots on Tuesday, and the leaders of both parties now here are receiving information, although neither of the parties have opened headquarters this year. The success or failure of special men in their ambitions gives the greatest amount of interest to the result.

Pennsylvania is expjected to return a normal off year Republican majority. Senator Quay said tonight:

"The Republican state ticket will receive a majority of not less than 60,000, and it may amount to 100,000. All depends on getting the vote out. Allegheny county will give about 18,000 Republican majority. In Philadelphia the regulars will win by an emphatic majority."

The leaders of both parties here concede that New Jersey will go Republican by an off year majority, and that Fraklin Murphy and his colleagues on the state ticket will be elected.

In New York it is conceded that the state will go Republican and elect a Republican legislature. All interest is centered in the fight in Greater New York. It is the concensus of opinion that Seth Low, Republican, will win for mayor, and that all his associates on the fusion ticket will be elected. A bet of $2,000 to $1,800 was made here yesterday that Col. Low would win.

The situation in Maryland is decidedly uncertain, although the leaders of both parties claim it. The only interest is in the fight for the legislature, as a Democratic victory means the return of ex-Senator Gorman to the senate in place of Senator Wellington. Mr. Gorman was defeated four years ago by the Cleveland free trade Democrats of Maryland voting the Republican ticket. If they do so again he will remain at home. If they vote the Democratic ticket he will be returned to the senate.

Advices from Ohio are that the state will be in the Republican column this year with a majority of 75,000 for Gov. Nash and the state ticket and a Republican majority of 15 in the legislature, thus insuring the return of Senator Foraker to the seat he so ably fills.

The Kentucky Democrats will again steal the state. A Democratic legislature will be returned and a Democrat will succeed Senator Deboe, Republican, in the senate. Factional quarrels among the Republicans have aided the Democrats materially.

Virginia, as usual, will go Democratic, as only Democratic officials are allowed to instruct the illiterate voters and only Democrats count the votes after they are cast.

In Iowa the fight is too one-sided to attract interest and as a consequence there may be a reduced Republican majority on the state ticket. The legislature will be strongly Republican, thus insuring the re-election of Senators Allison and Dolliver, Republicans.

Nebraska only elects minor state officers, but the contest will be lively, and W. J. Bryan has been speaking daily for the fusion ticket. The result will be close, with the chances in favor of the Republicans.

Massachusetts will re-elect Gov. Crane by 50,000 majority, and it will be a Republican victory all along the line.

CHARLES W. METZGAR.

STATE REPUBLICAN LEADERS ARE CONFIDENT.

BY CHESTER D. POTTER,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Republican leaders express absolute confidence as to the outcome of Tuesday's election. There is not the slightest uncertainty regarding the success of the state and county tickets. Potter and Harris will receive a plurality of not less than 40,000 in this city, and those in charge place it 10,000 higher. Insurance Commissioner I. W. Durham, who a week ago said he would win the local fight with 50,000 votes to spare, tonight stands by his first and only estimate. The state ticket, he says, will not run behind, there being no disposition to cut either Potter or Harris. The only cutting they will be subjected to is that of the bushwhacking bolomen, popularly known as "boxers." This vote is too insignificant to give concern and has been fully discounted.

General Frank Reeder is more than confident. He said the state ticket would have a plurality of more than 100,000. His reports show that there is no fusion sentiment except in Philadelphia, and as the firemen put it, that is "under control."

The fusion people tried to start trouble in Chester and Montgomery counties, but reliable advices are to the effect that they were not a success. Both counties will increase their off-year stalwart showing. The same holds good in Lancaster, Dauphin and other counties west.

Republicans Are Steadfast.

"Outside of Philadelphia," said Chairman Reeder, "the fusion germ has not gone below the surface. It failed to take." Republicans are still Republicans, and they refuse to be led astray. The ambitions and grievances of Mr. Wanamaker are of no importance to anyone save those on his payroll. They must show interest to hold their jobs. Republicans realize that Wanamaker is no longer one of them and they feel no personal interest in his compact with Col. Guffey, ex-Democratic leader. I look for a big vote Tuesday and am fully confident as to the outcome."

Republican City Chairman James Miles said: "The Union people have thrown up the sponge. They know they are badly beaten and are finding consolation in the perennial cry of 'fraud.' We have been analyzing the vote and find that a great majority of the would-be reformers are not qualified voters and have not been for years. Still they have been permitted to vote. Some are voting on property owned by their wives and as such are not taxpayers in the eyes of the law, they having failed to pay a personal tax. These will not see the inside of a booth Tuesday. We do not propose to tolerate 'fraud' and with that in view will not permit 'reformers,' or anyone else, to violate the ballot laws."

Yerkes Nomination a Mistake.

That Judge Yerkes will be heavily cut is now admitted by the fusion leaders. Privately they admit that his nomination was a mistake. Bryan Democrats and the labor organizations will not support him. Coray is equally unpopular. Regular Democrats are against him because he is a mugwump Republican, and was forced upon the ticket in opposition to the unanimously expressed desire of the Democratic state convention. The German-American vote will be solidly cast against Coray, and paradoxical as it may appear, the Prohibitionists to man are gainst him for the sme reasons.

The victory Tuesday will not be due to any landslide; it will be merely expressive of the fact that a large majority of the voters of Pennsylvania are Republicans, and as such they propose to retain control of the government, national, state and municipal, and the administrations of McKinley and Roosevelt are to be indorsed, as well as the cardinal party principle of majority rule.

DICK APPEALS TO OHIO REPUBLICANS

Sweeping Victory Certain If Voters and Committeemen Do Their Duty.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Chairman Charles Dick to-night issued the following:

To the Republicans of Ohio: So far as the work of your state committee is concerned the campaign of 1901 is closed. The work to be done between now and the closing of the polls Tuesday belongs to you. The death of our lamented McKinley has cast gloom and sorrow over all our people, but never was there a time when the principles which he advocated needed your support and indorsement more than now. His successor, in the very presence of death, declared it to be his aim to continue absolutely unbroken the policies of President McKinley for the peace and prosperity and honor of our beloved country.

It rests with you to say whether you will uphold the hands of President Roosevelt in this expressed determination.

You cannot do so without working.

The opposition, without the courage to oppose openly the principles for which the Republican party stands, has conducted a campaign of cunning, deception and stealth, hoping by such tactics to lull the Republicans into such a sense of security as will enable the Democrats to capture the legislature, elect a United States senator and redistrict the state for congressional purposes. Their vote of victory is in a light Republican vote. A full vote means Republican victory.

Every Republican can aid in bringing about such a victory by voting himself and assist-

CLOSE FINISH IN NEW YORK

BOTH PARTIES CLAIM A CERTAIN VICTORY TOMORROW.

Party Lines Badly Broken—No Criterion on Which to Base a Sound Judgment as to the Outcome of the Contest for the Mayoralty—Croker Over-Estimating the Democratic Vote.

WALTER WELLMAN,
(Special Dispatch to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)
(Chicago Record-Herald Special.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Day after tomorrow the fate of the greatest city in the western hemisphere is to be decided. New York is to be freed from the most iniquitous rule that ever disgraced a civilized community, or it is to sink lower and lower in the scale of civic morality. If this giant city cannot now shake off the corrupt oligarchy that has fastened itself blood-sucker like upon it, then hope may as well be abandoned. There can be no promise for the future. New York will have to resign itself to the domination of its worst elements.

Nothing but Tammany's control of the government and its power to grant favors gives it any sort of chance to win. Of the quarter of a million voters who are sure to cast their ballots for Shepard day after tomorrow, one-fifth are city employes, one-fifth more are blood-relations of the first fifth, another fifth are more or less under the control of the Tammany contractors, still another fifth are of the disorderly or tough class who naturally prefer Tammany's rule, and many of whom would be put in jail or run out of town if Tammany were defeated; the final fifth are respectable citizens who stand by Shepard because he is a Democrat and because they are Democrats.

Politicians Are Puzzled.

Take away any one of these constituent elements of the Tammany strength and Tammany would be overwhelmingly defeated. It may be defeated, anyway. Party lines are sadly broken, and the ordinary methods of forecasting the result now fail.

In sizing up the situation one mayoralty campaign must be compared with another; for it is only in local contests that party lines are sufficiently broken to make anything but Democratic success possible save in some exceptional case like that in 1896, when McKinley carried New York. Those who believe Low is to win find their comfort in the results of four years ago. Then, as now, the reform forces were in the field, but unfortunately they were divided. Tammany had a big plurality over Low, but polled only 44 per cent of the whole vote. Low and Tracy together polled 50,000 votes more than Van Wyck, the Tammany candidate. Now the forces which were then behind Low and Tracy are behind Low alone. They have been augmented by other forces, such as the Greater New York Democracy, a revolt against Tammany, which is probably good for from 5,000 to 10,000 votes.

Hope Based on the Past.

If the anti-Tammany strength (not including the 21,000 votes cast for Henry George) was 20,000 greater than the Tammany vote in 1897, men are asking why cannot the strength be relatively as great today, in view of the vastly greater inducement to keep the corrupt oligarchy out of power.

Apart from these general considerations of popular feeling there is not much that is significant. I have analyzed Croker's claim to a majority of 47,000 for Shepard in Manhattan borough, and am convinced that it is worthless. Last year I remember that Mr. Croker would not listen to anything less than 60,000 to 70,000 for Bryan in this borough. When the votes were counted he had to be content with less than 29,000. A similar scaling of his present claim would leave him about 20,000, and that, in my estimation, is much nearer the truth. In the assembly districts in the southeast part of the city, where the poor but decent people are in revolt on account of the horrible evils which abound under protection of the police, Croker claims much larger majorities than Bryan had, despite the revolt and despite the smaller vote. On the West Side, where similar conditions prevail and where Sheehan's bolting Democrats have some strength, Croker's figures suffer no shadings. Either he is fooling himself or his leaders are fooling him.

Shepard Strong in Brooklyn.

Notwithstanding the power of Tammany hall, which is about to starve men and put them in jail, give or deprive them of employment, close or open their places of business; notwithstanding the power of Tammany's corruption fund, the indications are that Shepard's majority in this borough will run from 10,000 to 20,000. Four years ago Van Wyck beat Low and Tracy together only 10,000 in Manhattan and Shepard will be lucky if he does much better.

The uncomfortable part of it is that 20,000, or even 15,000, may be enough to win. No one doubts that Brooklyn will go for Low. Even Tammany men concede this. Four years ago Low and Tracy together beat Van Wyck 29,000 votes in Brooklyn. If the men who supported them then can do as well now Low will surely be elected. But Shepard is positively strong in Brooklyn, and there are many indications that he will keep the Low majority in Brooklyn down to 15,000 or 20,000. And with a probability of from 10,000 to 20,000 for Shepard in Manhattan, and of about 15,000 for Low in Brooklyn, it can be seen that the chances largely favor a close vote. The other two boroughs, Richmond and Queens, do not cut much figure, but will probably give a majority of 2,000 or 3,000 to Shepard.

The best judgment, therefore, is that the campaign closes with the rival forces showing nearly equal strength, insofar as the state of the popular mind can be judged.

STALLINGS FORCED OUT.

Detroit Club Passes Into Other Hands.

DETROIT, MICH., Nov. 3.—It became known to-day that the control of the Detroit baseball club yesterday passed from Messrs. Burns and Stallings to S. F. Angus, a local capitalist, when the Peninsular Savings bank accepted a check for $13,000 for the stock that institution held as collateral for a loan made Burns and Stallings early in the past season.

COLD WAVE PROMISED FOR ELECTION DAY.

"Cold wave coming. Temperature will fall to a minimum of 22 or 26 degrees by Tuesday morning." So reads a telegram Col. Frank Ridgway received from Washington last night.

Prospects were good at midnight for stormy weather. Rain or snow flurries will be followed by the fringe of a cold wave that is now causing a boom in storm coats in the northwest. The weather conditions were so complex and the situation so doubtful that Forecaster Ridgway remained in his office until almost midnight scanning his maps and the official reports as they came in. Storm or no storm, it seemed certain Pittsburgh would have a frigid election day.

TAMMANY'S CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR.

HIGH MASS IS INTERRUPTED

PRESENCE OF FATHER CROWLEY EXCITES A CONGREGATION.

Excommunicated Priest Attends the Services at Holy Name Cathedral at Chicago and Refuses to Retire. Low Mass Then Substituted—Worshipers Refused to Speak to the Expelled Priest.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—There was an intensely dramatic scene in Holy Name cathedral to-day when, in the presence of fully one thousand parishioners, Jeremiah J. Crowley, the ex-communicated Roman Catholic priest, was publicly humiliated by order of the authorities of the church.

Father Crowley had entered the church unobserved, passing up the center aisle, and had taken a seat almost under the pulpit. Solemn high mass was being celebrated at the time. When the presence of Father Crowley became known the Rev. Francis J. Barry, chancellor of the archdiocese of Chicago, was hurriedly sent for. Upon entering the cathedral he went straight to the seat where the ex-communicated clergyman was kneeling and ordered him to leave the church.

Father Crowley refused to go, saying: "Put me out, if you dare."

The strain was intense, and one woman in the congregation fainted. There was no resort to force, however. Chancellor Barry signalled to a man in the choir loft and the sound of the organ ceased and the singing of the choir was hushed. The priests in the altar stopped the solemn service at the end of the "Gloria" and walked to the benches and laid aside their golden vestments. The altar boys marched out of the sanctuary through a side door, and, the priests clad in their cassocks, followed. The next moment the hundreds of incandescent lights in the vaulted arches were extinguished and the candle lights on the altar were put out.

The strain was broken when Chancellor Barry appeared in the pulpit, and said: "Owing to the presence in this sacred edifice of an ex-communicated priest, the solemn high mass has been suspended. We will proceed with a low mass."

No sermon was delivered, however, and the mass was at an end before the congregation was calm again. The parishioners lingered around the cathedral and watched the deposed priest as he hurried away. None spoke to him.

In a statement issued tonight Father Crowley insisted that it had been his desire to avoid involving any of his brother priests in contesting the order depriving him of the privilege of worshiping in Catholic churches, and that, accordingly, he had attended the church of Archbishop Feehan's own parish, which is the cathedral. He announced that he should continue to attend the services of the Roman Catholic church.

DRANK STRYCHNINE.

Sewickley Physician at Atlantic City Makes Attempt Upon His Life.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Dr. Harold W. Whitesell of Sewickley, Allegheny county, Pa., drank strychnine tonight shortly after 11 o'clock after sending a message to a sister residing at No. 506 Diamond street, Pittsburgh, Pa., that he intended to kill himself by shooting. He filed the telegram in the Western Union telegraph office and its contents caused Jesse Foltz and George Baitzell, two operators, to follow him down Atlantic avenue. When Whitesell reached Indiana avenue, four squares distant, he fell to the sidewalk. The two operators told Officer Wright of the telegram and the policeman had the men sent to the hospital. Before he became unconscious he said that he drank poison. The vial found in his pocket gave the hospital physicians the clue as to the character of the dose he had taken and which it is believed will prove fatal. He is now in a condition which the doctors say is critical. Whitesell is about 27 years old and has been located at a prominent hotel. He has been drinking and is thought was under acute mental agitation.

According to the directory, Dr. Whitesell is a brother of the Whitesell Bros., attorneys at law, who have offices at 506 Diamond street. His sister's name does not appear in the directory. The Whitesells live in Sewickley and are well known in valley circles. No communication could be had at an early hour this morning with his relatives. If the dispatch, as stated, was forwarded to 506 Diamond street, not any of his relations will have heard of the attempted suicide before the morning papers reach them.

M. S. QUAY WILL NOT VOTE.

His Condition Improving but He Decides to Yield to the Advice of His Physician.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Senator Quay has decided to follow the advice of Dr. Richardson and therefore for the first time in many years, will fail to vote at a fall election. He has arranged to pair with a Democratic neighbor of Beaver, however, and thus will protect his vote.

The senator's cough is slowly yielding to treatment, and his general condition is much better. Senator Quay's advices are to the effect that the Republican state ticket will on Tuesday receive a majority of at least 60,000, and that the figure may amount to 100,000.

AERONAUT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

WILD RIDE IN A RUNAWAY BALLOON STOPPED IN TIME.

Nine People Carried Across Mountains and Out to Sea, But Are Rescued by a Ranchman Fifty Miles from the Starting Point—The One Woman Passenger and Three Men Made Ill by the Experience.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Nov. 3.—The nine occupants of the car of the captive balloon which escaped from this city yesterday afternoon landed safely today. The balloon was landed near Pescadero, 50 miles from this city, and but a short distance from the ocean. The balloon was at one time setting out to sea, but was blown back to land.

Those who made the involuntary trip were: Ed. P. Dudley, aeronaut; A. L. Dodge, Ed. Foster, Jr., Walter Leon, C. P. Hildecoq, J. F. Leonard, M. L. Howarth, John A. M. Swift and Mrs. J. P. Gunsaulus.

When the balloon broke its bonds it sailed away in a southerly direction. South of Redwood City it struck another air current, which took it toward the ocean over the summit of the coast range. Nineteen miles from La Honda and about six miles from Pescadero the Beatty Thomson's place. Thomson was up and out when the balloon came along by Wurr's mill, and the grappling hook slipped through the trees and raked along bushy patches of ground. By this time much of the gas had been let out of the balloon and the power was weak. The rope that held snapped and the captive balloon became a runaway and was sweeping along the ground. When it came within Thomson's reach he grasped it and bore down with all his weight. This stopped the flight. Soon the balloon was brought to the ground and the eight passengers and the aeronaut alighted.

A. L. Dodge, one of the passengers, describing the trip, said the balloon first started eastward, and after circling about for a time drifted southward and became stationary for a short period. Then, catching a breeze from the eastward, it sailed over the San Mateo hills and stood far out over the ocean, and the occupants of the wicker cage faced the prospect of a plunge into the sea. Twice, according to Dodge's story, the balloon dipped close to the surface of the water, but rose again each time to a considerable altitude. Finally, a breeze from the south caught the balloon and carried it back over the land, and, after dragging the cage through the tops of a grove of trees, landed it on a hillside six miles from Pescadero.

"It was a terrible experience," said Dodge, "and I would not undergo the same adventure again for any consideration. Everybody was more or less shaky, while the woman passenger and two or three men were sick that they sat in the bottom of the basket throughout the trip."

MINISTER WU TO GO.

Affable Representative of China at Washington Will Be Recalled by His Government.

PEKING, Nov. 3.—The recall of Wu Ting-Fang, the Chinese minister at Washington, has been definitely decided upon. He will be offered a subordinate post in the foreign office which he will probably decline.

Li Hung Chang's interpreter, Tseng, adopted son of the Marquis Tseng, is a prominent candidate for the Washington mission. He is 30 years of age and was educated in England. Chang-Te-Yi has been appointed minister in London. He is 55 years of age and was formerly interpreter at the Chinese legations in London and Berlin. He is a Progressionist.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—Mr. Wu, the Chinese minister, tonight said he had not received any notice of his recall to China, a step which a Peking dispatch of yesterday's date said had been determined upon. He now has served on the mission here for more than a year longer than the customary time allowed by the foreign office at any one place, viz. three years. He is simply holding over now and his recall and the appointment of a successor would be simply in line with established practice. Mr. Wu's tenure has been very satisfactory to the administration, and it is understood that it was through representations of the officials here conveyed to the Chinese government that it was continued.

When asked whether he would return to China if he were recalled Mr. Wu replied with feeling:

"Why shouldn't I? All my interests are there."

WALKED TO CHURCH ON HER 108TH BIRTHDAY.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—At the age of 108 years today, Mrs. Ellen Coleman, known as "Granny" to the whole village of Hudson, celebrated her birthday by walking a mile and a half to the Sacred Heart church and smoking many pipefuls of tobacco when she returned home.

Mrs. Coleman was congratulated by nearly every resident of the town. She was born in County Mayo, Ireland, in 1793, and owing to a famine came to this country when 26 years old. She is strong and vigorous and has smoked tobacco for 50 years. She reads without glasses, which she never wore.

TWELVE DEATHS DUE TO POISON

Nurse Toppan Suspected of Long List of Deliberate Murders.

ARSENIC FOUND BY THE CHEMIST

Was Found in Large Quantities in Viscera of Victims—District Attorney Gives List of Persons Whom She Is Suspected of Murdering.

(Special to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 3.—Two more suspicious deaths, which, it is thought, may have been caused by Miss Jane Toppan, New England's newest Lucretia Borgia, the suspected poisoner of Mrs. Mary D. Gibbs, will be investigated by the state police. This brings the list of deaths with which the accused woman is suspected of having some connection up to 12. Arsenic in large quantities was today found in the viscera of the victims.

The new additions to the list are William H. Ingham, 81 years old, of Watertown, and a man whose name District Attorney Holmes will not divulge.

Mr. Ingham, according to the physician's return filed in the Watertown clerk's office, died of degenerative disease of the heart. During four days before his death he suffered from acute indigestion. The day the indigestion appeared Miss Toppan became his nurse. The symptoms of acute indigestion are the same, it is said, as those of arsenical poisoning.

"Has arsenic been found in the bodies of these two men?" your correspondent asked a state official tonight.

Deaths Caused by Arsenic.

"Without any question," was the reply. "Prof. Wood has found arsenic in very large quantities."

"Then the cause of death is in no sense uncertain?"

"Not at all. These two men beyond any possible doubt died of arsenical poisoning. Prof. Wood will be able to show this to the satisfaction of any jury."

The only person whom Miss Toppan is known to have nursed in Watertown was William H. Ingraram, who died during the latter part of January, 1900. The case, as shown by the undertaker's report, the death certificate and the recollections of friends and relatives, presents what may be considered some singular coincidences. According to the certificate, the cause of Mr. Ingham's death was "degenerative disease of the heart," duration, "several years." Accompanying this heart trouble, according to the certificate, was "acute indigestion, preceding, but not causing, death, duration, four days."

After the consultation with Prof. Wood of Harvard, District Attorney Holmes talked more freely with your correspondent tonight about the charges against Miss Toppan. He told of another supposed victim of hers who died in Watertown before the deaths of the Davis family, and gave almost in detail his reasons for ordering State Officer Whitney to arrest Miss Toppan. He said:

"The woman we have in the Barnstable jail is charged with one murder, that of Mrs. Mary D. Gibbs, and we suspect that she had something to do with the deaths of nine others. The four members of the Davis family—Alden P. Davis, his wife, and their daughters, Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Harry Gordon—we believe died from the effects of poison.

"There were suspicious circumstances in connection with the deaths of Mrs. Edna Bannister, Mrs. O. A. Brigham, and Florence N. Calkins of Lowell.

Other Suspicious Deaths.

"There are reasons to believe that Miss Connors, whose place Miss Toppan took in the mess house at Woods Hole and in the Episcopal school at Cambridge, may have died from unnatural causes.

"There are things about the deaths of Israel P. Durham and his wife of Cambridge which have not been satisfactorily explained.

"I have been told of another death she may be interested in, which for certain reasons I do not care to give details about now. Miss Toppan nursed all these people.

"Mrs. Ferdinand of Canbridge became ill in her cottage at Cataumet while under the care of Miss Toppan, but recovered after the family became suspicious of Miss Toppan and watched her, and O. M. Brigam of Lowel says he recovered from an illness during which he was nursed by Miss Toppan, after his physician had warned him to watch his nurse.

"In almost every house to which she went as a nurse there was a death, and most of those deaths were after a remarkably short illness. People who were apparently in good health, as was the case at the Davis house, died after a two or three days' illness, and with those deaths there were often happenings about the houses which no one could explain."

"You know of the fires that occurred at the Davis cottage and in the hotel at Cataumet. We know that there were fires in other places in which she lived.

"Will we try to prove that the motive for poisoning the Davis family was robbery, and that she had a mania for doing the things that have gone on? Not exactly that. We will probably not try to prove anything about a mania, but I tell you there is considerable in the story that is told about Miss Toppan's efforts to induce Mrs. Gibbs, with whose murder she is charged, to sign an agreement relieving her of the debt she owed the Davis estate. The refusal of Mrs. Gibbs to sign that agreement may have had much to do with bringing about her death. We know that Miss Toppan owed the old man Davis at least $250, and when he died $300 that he was known to have had before his death could not be found."

STONY BROOK, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Triplets were born yesterday in the family of William Blydenburgh. Each weighs 7 pounds.

When the nurse announced the arrival of a girl the father cried out "Glory!" When a boy was born he shouted "Glory, hallelujah!" And when the second daughter came, he said: "We can take care of all of them, but we have only clothes for one."

ADMIRATION OF ART CRITICS.

One of the Noble Pianos in the Steinway Exhibit Receives Special Praise from Connoisseurs.

Of course, one naturally expects art lov- ers to pay high tribute to all the art pianos in the present Steinway exhibit at the Hotel Schenley, and it is not surpris- ing that they should single out instru- ments for special praise.

One piano that pleases everybody very much is a mahogany upright. This is a very fine colonial design, remarkable for the distinctness of its lines of construc- tion. Its air of combined strength and lightness is obtained from the narrow pilasters of the corners of the case, which run unbroken from the floor to the lid, and are defined and emphasized by a line of purfling along each edge. The absence of a delicate marquetry honey- suckle drop lends further emphasis to the pilasters. The keyboard is sup- ported by square, but slightly tapering, feet well forward to its corners, so as to give a feeling of perfect repose to the entire construction. The legs are purfled and shield conformably to the pilasters. The ornamentation of the case is in geo- metric figures, inlaid with satinwood in narrow lines, which are immediately de- rived from the construction of the instru- ment. Thus, the upper front is divided into three panels by a series of oblongs and lozenges thus inlaid, while the lower front is resolved into two panels. The middle panel of the upper case gives the key to the decoration in a foliated ro- sette of a greenish marquetry, enclosed in a series of squares and lozenges, the effect of which is particularly happy.

No one should miss seeing this collec- tion. A cordial invitation to visit the ex- hibit is extended to everybody by the C. C. Mellor Company, 319-321 Fifth avenue, who brought the collection to Pittsburgh. They are the sole representatives of Steinway & Sons in Pittsburgh.

Take a postal card, address it to the Cranitonic Hair Food Co., 523 West Broad- way, New York City, and write on the reverse side something like this: "Please send me a copy of the 48 page illustrated book entitled Hair Care and a sample of the Cranitonic Hair Food Products, which the Commercial Gazette says you are sending free and postpaid to people who write for them." Sign your name, give your address, street and number and mail the card. Then wait a few days and you will receive by mail a sample of the most exquisite French toilet preparation ever offered to the public.

If you will write a letter, enclosing a small lock of hair or a sample of the daily combings, and state if you have falling hair, dandruff or itching scalp, the phy- sicians of the Cranitonic Institute will make a microscopical examination of the hair, send you a report upon its condition and prescribe curative treatment free of charge. 111h ing his local committees in getting others to the polls.

The result depends upon the county and precinct committeemen and upon the individu- ual work of Republicans on election day. Re- member that every vote counts.

Therefore, we do publish you to get out the vote. If this be done, from information re- ceived at the headquarters, we predict the election of Guy Nash and the entire state ticket by a plurality exceeding that of two years ago, and in the general assembly con- test the election of 22 and possibly 25 of the 32 senators, and 70 certain, with the proba- bility of 80 of the 110 members of the house of representatives, thus insuring the return of Joseph R. PREACHERS OPPOSE TAMMANY TICKET

New York Pastors Join in the Fight Against Croker and His Rule.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The feature of the local political campaign today was the active part taken in it by the pastors of the churches. Thirty-one pastors, clergymen and two leaders of independent church societies advertised themselves to speak on the issues of the election, and all these clergymen took for their sub- jects the maladministration of the pres- ent city officers. Rabbi Schulman, the one Jewish priest whose sermon was re- ported, urged on his hearers the support of the fusion ticket because of the revela- tions concerning vice in the tenement dis- tricts.

All the Protestant pastors represented except two talked for the fusion ticket, asserting that vice and unsanitary condi- tions existed here and a change was needed.

The exceptions were of Dr. David G. Wylie, of the Scotch Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Dr. Vandewater, of St. An- drew's Episcopal church, who advised their congregations to examine the two tickets closely and vote for the best men on them. Henry Frank, of the Metropoli- tan Independent church, advised his hear- ers to vote "against bosses whether they came from this city or Tioga county."

The Rev. Father J. Ducey, of St. Leo's Roman Catholic church, was alone in those reported who spoke on the election for the Shepard side.

While the fusion campaign practically closed last night a few more meetings have been scheduled for Monday and Monday night. Senator Depew is down for a speech during the day at a meeting to last from noon until 5 p. m.

The Democratic campaign was carried on with vigor tonight, the party leaders having engaged five theaters and from the stages of these the orators cheered their supporters with words of coming victory.

The Democrats intend to carry the work up to the last moment, and today have not changed their forecast, which is that Mr. Shepard will receive a ma- jority of the greater city of about 50,000 Robert A. Morris of the Republican com- mittee today repeated his assertion of Saturday that Mr. Low's majority would be 70,000 in Greater New York.

Superintendent of Election McCullagh today addressed a letter to Police Com- missioner Murphy informing him that it had been ascertained that a large gang of repeaters had been organized in Jersey City to come over to New York to vote in the Ninth assembly district in this city. His information also was that another gang had been formed in that district to invade Jersey City, and he asked Col. Murphy's assistance in preventing the repeaters from voting. Chief Murphy of Jersey City was also informed of the alleged attempt to be made to vote il- legally.

WEATHER A FACTOR IN STATE OF IOWA

Republican Chairman Esti- mates Plurality of 75,000 for the Ticket.

DES MOINES, IA., Nov. 3.—There have been no developments today in the election outlook beyond a severe change in the weather, which, if continued, is likely to affect the turnout at the polls. Chairman Spence, of the Republican state committee, estimates a total vote of about 440,000, of which he thinks the Re- publican ticket will get 250,000. The Democratic ticket 175,000, the Prohibition- ists 14,000, and the remainder scattering. This would give 75,000 plurality for the Republican ticket, and any change from these figures would be caused by the size of the total vote—the larger the total, the larger the Republican plurality. Frank Q. Stuart, secretary of the Democratic state committee, thinks the Republican estimates are too large, but refuses to give any figures of his own.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

East End Republican Club Indorses State Ticket and City Ad- ministration.

The East End Republican club has in- dorsed the Republican ticket and the ad- ministration of Recorder Adam M. Brown. At a meeting Saturday evening, attended by most of the 345 members from the Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first wards and presided over by Thomas Hart- man, George H. Hawksworth presented these resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That this meeting of members of the East End Republican club of Pittsburgh cordially indorses the candidacy of the Hon. William P. Potter for the supreme court. As a man and a lawyer we know him to be able, honest and of unquestionable integrity. We do further urge all loyal Republicans of this club to vote for him at the election on Tues- day next.

Resolved, That we indorse the candidacy of Frank G. Harris for state treasurer, and pledge to the entire ticket our earnest support.

Resolved, That we commend Maj. Adam M. Brown, recorder of this city for his business- like administration, his loyal Republicanism, and his determination that the government of this city shall be run in the interest of the taxpayers. And we further tender him our cordial support, believing that he is earnestly and successfully striving to carry out the wishes of the people of Pittsburgh, and the letter and spirit of the new city charter.

IN BRYAN'S STATE.

Forecasters of Both Parties Predict a Light Vote at Tomorrow's Election.

LINCOLN, NEB., Nov. 3.—It was a quiet day at the state headquarters of the Republican and fusion committees. A few reports from county committee- men came in.

Tomorrow will be devoted to rounding up the voters who have failed to register. Yesterday a storm played havoc with the registration in this city, which shows a falling off of over 2,000, compared with a year ago, and is less by 1,000 than two years ago. The same report comes from Beatrice, Fremont and other larger towns in the state.

The only rally of consequence tomorrow will be at South Omaha, where W. J. Bryan will make a number of speeches at night. No demonstration is planned in Lincoln, aside, possibly, from one or two ward meetings. At the two state head- quarters the respective chairmen said to- night they saw no reason to change their estimates previously made. Both com- mittees predict a light vote.

REDMOND APPEALS TO IRISH-AMERICANS

Says Ireland Is United and Will Make England Relax Her Grip.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Irish-Americans to the number of 3,000 or 4,000 from this city and vicinity gathered tonight at a reception given at Carnegie hall in honor of John F. Redmond, M. P., leader of the Irish Nationalist party in the British par- liament.

William A. McAdoo, former assistant secretary of the navy, was chairman of the evening and introduced Mr. Redmond, who said in part:

"My object in coming here is, in the first place, to proclaim the unity of the Irish people at home; secondly, to explain the policy which these people at home have unanimously adopted; and finally to say to the Irish race in America that if they approve of that policy they ought to support it; but that whether they sup- port it or not—whether the Irish people at home are left in this crisis of their country's history to carry on this struggle against England without the aid of their brethren throughout the world, or not, we at home are disciplined enough and strong enough and earnest enough to carry on this movement ourselves and at any cost we shall do so."

Mr. Redmond said that the policy of the United Irish League movement was to ad- vance the national cause of Irishmen by making the government of Ireland by England, in every department—both in parliament and out of parliament, difficult and dangerous, and finally impossible. He said it was proposed to accomplish this by means of the United Irish league or- ganization, the lineal successor of the land league.

FOUGHT FOR TWO DAYS.

Further Details of the Battle Be- tween Botha and Benson's Col- umn—Riot in London.

PRETORIA, Nov. 3.—Further details have been received regarding the attack by the Boers under Commandant General Louis Botha last week upon Col. Benson's column near Brakenlaagte, eastern Transvaal. It appears that General Botha, who had been joined by another big commando aggregating a thousand men, attacked Colonel Benson's rear guard October 30 on the march, and cap- tured two guns, but was unable to re- tain them. Colonel Benson fell mortally wounded early in the fight.

Major Wools-Sampson took command, collected the convoy and took up a posi- tion for defense about 500 yards from en- trenchments prepared by the Boers. The captured guns were so situated that neither side could reach them.

The Boers made desperate efforts to overwhelm the whole British force, charging repeatedly right up to the Brit- ish lines and being driven back each time with heavy loss. The defense was stub- bornly and successfully maintained through the whole following day and the succeeding night, until Colonel Barter, who had marched all night from Bush- man's kop, brought relief in the morn- ing of November 1. The Boers then re- tired. Their losses are estimated as be- tween 300 and 400. Colonel Benson did not long survive. Not only did General Botha direct the attack, as already cabled, but he personally shared in the fighting.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A riot, in which about 20,000 people participated, occurred in Peckham, a suburb of this city yes- terday afternoon. The riot was caused by an attempted meeting of Boer sym- pathizers.

CONVENTION AT AN END.

Farewell Services of the Brother- hood of Andrew and Philip Meeting Held.

The convention of the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip ended last night. In- teresting services marked its close. The Rev. Rufus W. Miller, president of the Brotherhood, preach- the sermon. At its close a banner was awarded to the Phil- adelphia local union for having formed the greatest number of new chapters. Princeton chapter of Philadelphia won an- other banner for a like reason.

JOSEPH R. PAUL, President of the Local Union.

The Rev. Dr. Al- fred E. Keigwin of Newark, N. J., con- ducted a consecra- tion service. It was concluded by forming the "Brotherhood circle." The delegates stood along the outer aisles with clasped hands, entirely surrounding the congregation. They sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and the benediction was pronounced.

Saturday afternoon was given over to sightseeing. Several interesting addresses were delivered at the morning and even- ing sessions.

Buying Gift Things Several Weeks Ahead.

The half of a week, seven full weeks—and Christmas. Buying has already begun—a fortnight back—and it grows livelier each day.

Why not do a lot of it this week?

There's the toys—lots of the mechanical devices are disappearing. There is no way to duplicate them. Many of the best pieces are with us yet. See them if possible this week and have us put your selection aside.

Then there are the novelties in silver and leather—exquisitely wrought things—that will not be here long, and they should be seen and selections made.

Understand, please, we are urging you to do this in your own interest, for we know how disappointing it is to come for something you have seen two or three weeks back and find it gone.

All you have to do is to say the word and we'll see that your selections are ready for delivery when you give the order.

The news this morning is mostly of wearables.

All Wool Armure,
choice of either or all..... 50c Yd.

We offer these materials as correct for every kind of house and street wear. We may as well tell you here that last week we sold thousands of yards for holiday gifts, the most useful and serviceable gift that can be given.

One hundred pieces more will be added to the above col- lection not later than noon today, a special shipment being now on its way as fast as steam can bring it.

Satin Zibeline Cloth direct from the looms of Picardie, France—$2.50 and $3.00 a yard. These magnificent and stylish fabrics are in the new rich browns and castor shades; also blue, green and Oxford mixtures.

Special showing of London Tailorings in neat hair-line stripes and invisible checks. In many of the styles we ex- hibit there are no duplicates in either of the cities. We par- ticularly draw your attention to this importation; prices ranging from $2 to $6 a yard.

Other dressy fabrics, such as Silk Voiles, Silk Warp Barege, Twine Etamines—new sheer stuffs—were received last week and await your choice. All the fashionable Parisian colors, $1, $1.25, $1.50, $2, $2.50 a yard.

Broadcloths with a satin finish. These broadcloths hold their heads high above the others. And there is such a great collection of them. No one will contradict us when we say lowest prices, $1 to $4 a yard.

Women's Fine Stockings.

We mean the finest—the finest silk stockings, cotton, cash- mere and lisle thread stockings. Stockings, some of them, that will cost women $8 and $10 a pair, and even at those prices much lower than they could be bought (if any other stores had such stockings) around here.

Why? Because we send our buyer right into the French, English, Irish and German districts where they make the finest hosiery in the world; selections are made in vast assortments; they come to us through the Pittsburg Custom House; we pay the duty—that's all there is to it. But it's enough to give you fine stockings for far less than you can purchase same stock- ings, or rather same quality, from stores that have to buy their supply from New York importers.

Do we sell many pairs of the real fine stockings? Do we? Yes. Thousands of pairs in a season. Only last week a lady looking through the variety took three pairs, $6, $8, $10. Next day she came back and took two pairs more of the $10 stock- ings; another lady selected four pair of the $8 stockings. That is the way we are constantly selling fine stockings.

Our finest Silk Hose come from France. There are many exquisite effects in open-work, real lace insertions and em- broidery and open-work ankles in white and black. Of silk stockings in solid colors there is almost an interminable variety of colors and the many different shades of each color. Prices begin at $2.50 and range along by comfort- able steps to $10 a pair. Other fine novelty stockings of silk, also white, generally selected for the bridal trousseau, up to $18 a pair.

Of cotton, cashmere and lisle thread Hosiery there is noth- ing but what we have—staples as well as fancies. Cotton stockings in such staple colors as natural balbriggan and black sell for $1 and up to $8 a pair; cashmere in the same staple colors sell for $1.50 to $4 a pair.

Fancy Stockings of cotton, cashmere and lisle thread, black grounds with embroidered ankles, the embroidery in every desirable color, and the patterns and effects more numerous than we could undertake to describe, sell for $1.75 and up to $3 a pair.

Black Dress Goods.

The mills of Bradford, England, weave the best black goods in the world. We have been selling Bradford Black Goods for years and know their worth. Splendid dependable goods in every particular.

The two special numbers spoken of below are from Bradford.

Another shipment of those 58-inch Sponged and Shrunk Cheviots, and the price is only 75c a yard. Think of the width at the same time you remark about the low price. Do you wonder why we are pushed to meet the demand?

And here are black Crepons, the regular $1.50 a yard kind, for just half—75c a yard. Why half price? Because crepons have been superseded by other fashionable goods. But if you do not care what Fashion says you have the finest of dresses—goods that will wear until you get tired of the dress—for a very small sum, indeed.

For the separate skirt either of the above numbers are just the thing.

Winter Covers for the Bed.

It is a treat to go through our Bedding Department in the basement. Here are stacks and stacks of Comforts, their parti-colored coverings forming a brilliant kaleidoscopic pic- ture; the blankets, piles upon piles of them, the colored borders throwing off suggestions of tartan effects; the spreads—but you won't find them on the counters. They are too white to let lay around. They are kept in dust-proof drawers; but we can show as fine a lot as you ever saw.

Nowhere in either city can such a stock of bedding be seen. How do we know? Customers tell us every day—those who have been around.

Again, we say, nowhere in the two cities can such a stock of bedding be found, and nowhere can our low prices be dup- licated.

Hundreds of new styles in Silkaline covered Comforts, the filling of best white cotton, prices $1.25, $1.75 and $2 each. Full size—no skimping because of the little prices.

Hundreds of new styles in Satine covered Comforts, filling of best white cotton, $2.25, $2.50, $3, $3.50 and up to $5 each.

California Blankets—single bed size, $3, $4, $6, $7, $8 a pair; three-quarter bed size, $4, $5, $7, $10 a pair; double bed size, $8, $10, $12, $15, $18, $20 a pair.

Silk Remnants.

All the ends of Silk up to 12 and 14 yards that we could find in our silk section have been marked down to prices that will sell them all out quickly.

About a thousand pieces—blacks, evening shades, colors and fancy; in fact, about every kind of silk that a good silk store keeps. You know the best things are the quickest to be- come remnants.

And here are two numbers of 50c-a-Yard Silks that you could not match for the price, taking samples of ours along for a quality test, if you were to put in a whole day making the rounds of the silk stores.

What a timely and happy suggestion these silk remnants contain for the makers of Christmas bags and the many dif- ferent things for church fairs!

Lustrous Louisines, 50c a Yard—Make pretty waists and any of the numerous negligee gowns. Soft and cling- ing. Such preferred colors as white, black, cream, ceil, pink, gray, reseda, cardinal and brown.

Plain colored Taffeta, 50c a Yard—Full 19 inches wide and a splendid quality. Pink, ceil, maize, cardinal, garnet, navy, brown, heliotrope, also white. A silk that you have many uses for.

Good enough silk news, isn't it, to bring every woman in town here today?

Fancy Waistings.

Before the Misses Pittsburg and Allegheny had scarcely smiled upon these beautiful fabrics—knowing the smile meant cordial approval—we placed large orders with the manufac- turers.

Our variety is that large that we are entitled, as customers tell us, to be called headquarters for them.

These waistings are scarce. If we had waited we would have been up against the market. We didn't wait—therefore we have the choicest patterns to offer in plain and fancy ef- fects at 50c, 55c, 60c, 65c, 75c, and up to $1.25 a yard.

The handsome tucked Waistings are priced just as temptingly.

PENN AND FIFTH.

MANY ATTEND HOUSEWARMING

Formal Opening of the New Gazette Building Was Auspicious.

REPRESENTATIVE MEN WERE PRESENT

For Three Hours the Splendidly Equipped Plant Was Thronged With Hundreds of Interested Friends of the Four Papers.

The new editorial and power building of the Gazette, also occupied by the Chronicle Telegraph and the Volksblatt and Freiheits Freund, in Diamond alley, was formally opened Saturday night. Hundreds of people thronged the spacious rooms of the building between 8 and 11 o'clock inspecting with interest what is generally regarded as one of the most complete newspaper plants in the United States.

Pittsburghers prominent in every walk of life were on the list of invited guests, and many a busy man who dropped in to stay for a moment or so interested that an hour slipped away without being noticed. From the opening of the reception until shortly after 11 o'clock, when the last of the guests departed, the building from basement to roof was thronged with people seeing the process of publication of the newspaper whose slogan of progress has been "Watch the Old Lady Grow Young."

Many of the guests on Saturday night could remember the paper years ago, even before the Gazette and the Commercial had combined. The oldest subscriber of the Gazette was present in the person of L. O. Cameron of Bellevue, who remembers the old Pittsburgh Gazette fairly in the last century. The oldest employe of the paper, William Anderson, who has served for nearly 60 years and is still on the active list, was also present. Mr. Cameron and Mr. Anderson had an interesting talk during the evening concerning the changes both had seen in American newspapers in general and the Gazette in particular.

Building Thrown Open.

The building was open from the storage room in the basement to the composing room on the fourth floor. Employes of the paper stood about the various departments directing visitors where to go and explaining the particular work carried on in each place.

On the first mezzanine floor visitors were shown through the circulation department, where souvenirs of the occasion, in the shape of photo-engraved copies of the Gazette extra announcing the death of President William McKinley, small boxes of matches, and cards of various kinds, were presented to them.

One of the chief points of interest was the press room. The visitors' gallery, overlooking the great machines, was thronged all the time, and many people crowded about the floor of the room listening with interest to the demonstration of the press work and watching the huge presses running.

The presses are the most improved model quadruple Goss, and were run at short intervals for visitors to see how a large roll of white paper going in one end of the press comes out a printed, folded, and cut newspaper at the other end.

Hydraulic elevators for hoisting paper from the storeroom in the basement were utilized to take visitors down to the engine room, where the power and electric light for the building is generated. The mailing room, on the first floor, was turned into a refreshment room, where light luncheon and coffee stood ready for all.

Interest in Reception Room.

The interest seemed to center about the reception room on the second, or editorial floor. Here the news room, where "copy" for the paper is prepared, the smaller offices of the various department editors, the art room, where cartoons, cuts, and photographs are made, attracted the people. In the telegraph room, where news from all over the world pours in by day and by night, an orchestra was stationed.

On the third floor the chief attraction was the stereotyping room. The composing room of the Volksblatt and Freiheits Freund also attracted many of the visitors.

The fourth, or top floor of the building is used as composing room for The Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph. Here the wonderful linotype machines were in operation, and the old-fashioned hand setting of type was seen. The news of the paper is set on the linotype machines, and most of the advertisements are set by hand. The composing room was crowded during the entire evening, each machine being surrounded by a curious throng of people listening to the explanation given every few minutes by the operators.

The reception was entirely informal, and as many of the people in attendance were friends, or at least acquaintances, the hum of conversation was as brisk as at the conventional tea party, where women discuss the fads and foibles of their neighbors.

Pleasant Words of Praise.

Many in replying to the invitations of The Gazette said some very pleasant things about the "Old Lady." The Rev. David F. Dickson of Beacon, Pa., says: "I am of the third generation of our family who have read The Gazette regularly, and expect my children after me to read it. May she live long and prosper."

The Rev. C. H. Pridgeon writes: "Among Pittsburgh dailies we have always considered The Gazette as preferred stock. We especially appreciate your accurate and kindly account of the Pittsburgh Bible institute soon to be started."

The Rev. John Knox McClung, pastor of the Shady Side United Presbyterian church, writes: "Your paper, The Gazette, has been a daily and always welcome visitor in our home for more than 20 years. I rejoice in this new evidence of your prosperity and success."

William J. Peck, editor and publisher of the Pittston Gazette, says: "The Pittston Gazette extends to you its heartiest good wishes for continued prosperity and wishes you God speed in your course as a fearless champion of true Republican principles."

John S. Lamble, president of select council, who was prevented from attending the reception by illness, says: "The respected and honored proprietors of The Gazette, The Chronical Telegraph and the Volksblatt and Freiheits Freund have my most cordial and sincere sympathy in their work, which daily shows its merit to the citizens of Pittsburgh. The Gazette, I am sure, will be advanced in her second century, and the same good judgement, skill and commercial integrity thus far manifested insure the closing of the second century in a blaze of glory. As to her proteges we can only wish them the same success that has attended her."

Gov. William A. Stone, in regretting his inability to be present, said: "I congratulate you on the success which you have made in so short a time as a journalist. I believe your papers will have a wider circulation and increased influence."

"It Has No Superior."

The Rev. W. H. Knox, pastor of the Wylie Avenue United Presbyterian church, writes: "For 36 years I have read no other paper. It is now better than ever and has no superior in this country. I salute the 'Old Lady,' and may she continue to grow young."

Maj. A. P. Burchfield says: "Congratulating you on your enterprise and the enviable position you occupy for clean, wholesome journalism in the city and nation, I am," etc.

Secretary of Internal Affairs James W. Latta writes: "Congratulating The Gazette on a change which must better its facilities for the continuance of the publication of a journal of such extended influence and circulation and regrets his inability to accept its invitation."

Rev. C. Miller says: "Your Gazette is to me a very important paper, as I have been reading it regularly with few breaks since 1846."

J. M. McJunkin says: "I have been a constant reader of The Gazette for 50 years, and rejoice in whatever makes for the prosperity and progress of the paper."

Marshall H. Reis of the Reis Shorthand school says: "As an advertising medium we consider The Pittsburgh Gazette par excellence, the classified columns yielding very gratifying results, and as a news journal and for home or office it is unexcelled."

Thomas F. Kirk, jr., business manager of the Alvin theater, says: "I offer you my congratulations upon the completion of a splendid building, which is not only a model in its way, but is also a beautiful addition to the architecture of our thriving city. May the 'Old Lady' and her near relatives continue to grow young."

The Rev. D. F. McGill says: "Having been a subscriber to The Gazette during all of my pastorate of almost 17 years in Allegheny I need scarcely say that I rejoice in the present evidence of prosperity presented by the most excellent family paper."

Francis J. Torrance says: "I wish to heartily congratulate you on the successful management of the interests in question, and trust that in your new quarters you may increase the well deserved prestige of the same."

Finds It a Source of Wisdom.

William L. Taylor writes: "It is now 20 years since I first subscribed to The Gazette, and in all these years it has been a source of wisdom in politics, in social and business life. In political information usually reliable, in business suggestion and general information none be better. In social life it was, during its younger days, a quiet observer and a high authority on domestic economy. I am told, too, that it is past its hundredth birthday and is still growing more sprightly and younger every day. To my mind the 'Old Lady' has been, mentally and morally sustained by many of her contemporaries, and I trust that as she grows older she may grow in wisdom and usefulness."

W. C. Fownes, in regretting his inability to attend the reception, takes occasion to "wish this sterling journal much prosperity in its new quarters and trusts that may be permitted to take a peep around at some later day."

William F. Lloyd says: "Trusting the 'Old Lady' will continue growing younger and that her offspring may also be a source of satisfaction both to her owner and to the public, I am," etc.

John H. Garnsey of Joliet, Ill., regrets that he could not attend the reception and says: "A long life and prosperity to the 'Old Lady' and all of her children."

The Rev. Dr. L. Mayer was unable to attend. He says: "I regret exceedingly my inability to be present and wish you and your paper all the success possible and commend your efforts in giving us such a good newspaper as The Gazette is."

Recorder A. M. Brown says: "I regret that an important public duty, requiring my presence at Bellevue, Pa., elsewhere will deprive me of the pleasure of inspecting the new editorial and power building of Th Pittsburgh Gazette at the time mentioned. If it were possible I would be pleased to enjoy the pleasure of such a visit, for I am gratified by the success of The Gazette and the other newspapers connected with it."

GERMAN ANARCHISTS BECOME AUDACIOUS

Boldly Announce Their Intention to Glorify the Executed Chicago Reds.

(Special Cable to The Gazette.)

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Germany's anarchist workingmen will commemorate the fifteenth anniversary of the execution of the Chicago anarchists tomorrow by planning and effecting glorifying the memory of Spies, Parsons, Engel and Fischer. The Socialist outburst constitutes one of the boldest defiances the German rods ever had the audacity to make.

Two regularly published and first newspapers announce anniversary editions. The police are aware of the intended publications, but declare their helplessness to prohibit them as long as the authors keep within reasonable bounds.

The authorities say, however, that the time is approaching when extraordinary measures for suppression of anarchy will be inaugurated.

FRENCH DEMAND ON THE SULTAN

Minister of Foreign Affairs Insists on Knowing How and When Turkey Proposes to Settle the Lorando Claim—Movements of Caillaux's Fleet Is Not Known.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—This morning M. Delcasso, minister of foreign affairs, telegraphed M. Bapst, councillor of the French embassy in Constantinople, directing him to present today to Tewfik Pasha, Ottoman minister of foreign affairs, a note asking how the Turkish government proposes to pay the Lorando claim, and demanding the execution of the sultan's trade dealing with that matter.

The note will also request satisfaction regarding the rights of France which are declined in the various capitulations and treaties, and which in some cases have not been respected, and in others have been encroached upon by Turkey.

Admiral Caillard is expected to reach his destination tomorrow. The foreign office has received no news from him since his division left the other divisions of the Mediterranean squadron en route for Turkish waters four days ago.

It is pointed out that the absence of news is not surprising as the instructions to Admiral Caillard were to steer due south and to avoid passing in sight of Bonifacio, Corsica or traversing the Straits of Messina in order to prevent his movements being signalled. The vessels of the division carried only a normal supply of coal, but this would be much more than sufficient to enable them to steer 3,000 miles, the ordinary distance they must cover before reaching their destination.

Dispatches from Rome assert that the [illegible] of the Italian Mediterranean squadron, which [illegible] yesterday left for Turkish waters with the supposed object of counterbalancing the French naval demonstration, will join the first division which has been cruising in the eastern Mediterranean for some time.

It appears also that the Greek warships Psara, Hydra, Spetsai and Eurotas are now at Smyrna, where is also the Russian Mediterranean squadron.

It is believed that the British squadron now at Piraeus, Greece will be ordered to proceed to Beirout, Syria.

LI HUNG CHANG BETTER.

Aged Chinese Statesman Is Suffering from Ulceration of the Stomach.

PEKING, Nov. 3.—The condition of Li Hung Chang, who has been seriously ill, shows improvement. His physicians diagnosed the malady as ulceration of the stomach and the hemorrhages have been severe.

As a rule he is an intractable patient; but having been told that his life depends upon his adhering to a liquid diet, he is complying with the medical orders.

COMPANY FOR MISS STONE.

Brigands Carry Off Mother of a Bulgarian Official of Town of Serga.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—"It is reported from Saloniki," says the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Express, "that brigands have carried off the mother of the chief [illegible] of Serga, Macedonia, about 50 miles northeast of Saloniki, and came upon the spot where Miss Stone is detained."

Edward Prays for Peace.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—At the dinner on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert last Friday evening King Edward, toasting the duke and duchess of Cornwall and York, gave a sketch of their tour. Referring to their arrival at Cape Town his majesty said: "There unfortunately the war is still prolonged, but we firmly anticipate the reestablishment of peace and prosperity."

STEAMER WAR NOT PERMANENT

Steamship Companies Are Simply Meeting Winter Competition and There Is Little Hope of Continuous Reduction in Transatlantic Passenger Rates.

(Special Cable to the Gazette.)

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—"The popular hopes of cheap ocean fares as a permanent result from any temporary rate war is baseless," said Director General Wiegand of the North German Lloyd, when he was asked the ultimate effect of the pending Anglo-German steamship feud. Wiegand asserts that his line is simply meeting the new winter rates. It is announced today by the Cunard line: "Our opinion is that the Cunard Peg made a cheaper schedule than wisdom dictates, still we shall meet competition as long as we offer it only on traffic to and from English ports affected."

The steamship rates are matters of close calculation, and they are now at a bed-rock basis.

ASSASSINATION NO CRIME.

Senor Reyes of Manila Declares That the Killing of President McKinley Was Not Criminal.

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 3.—An exciting incident took place today during the public demonstration before the Philippine commission over the draft of the act against treason and sedition, when Senor Sabalie Reyes, a Spanish journalist announced that in his opinion the assassination of President McKinley was not a crime.

After Vice Governor Wright had explained the purpose of the act, Senor Reyes said that he was opposed to the bill and declared that any and all legal [illegible] the most reasonable meeting [illegible] with the matter under consideration.

Commissioner Worcester asked him if he considered the killing of King Humbert a political crime. Senor Reyes replied: "Nothing politics is criminal."

Vice Governor Wright asked him if he considered the killing of President McKinley a criminal act.

In answer Senor Reyes remarked: "I have already made it clear that there is no such thing as a political crime."

The commissioners indignantly ordered him to withdraw.

OLDEST READER WAS PRESENT

Louis O. Cameron of Bellevue a Guest of The Gazette at Opening.

HAS READ PAPER FOR 77 YEARS

Tells Many Incidents of Old Pioneer Days Around Pittsburgh, and Is Amazed at Changes From Old-Fashioned Newspaper Work.

The Pittsburgh Gazette was honored Saturday night by the presence, at the formal opening of its new building of a man who has been a reader and firm friend of the paper for more than 75 years. When invitations to the reception were sent out L. O. Cameron of Bellevue was among the invited guests. Although 83 years of age, he accepted the invitation and attended the reception. Mr. Cameron says that one of his earliest recollections is of a copy of the old Gazette, in that time newspapers were a rarity, and pages from one copy sometimes conveyed the news to farmers over a great extent of country, being passed from farm to farm.

L. O. CAMERON,
The Oldest Living Reader of the Gazette.

After Mr. Cameron had seen the wonders of a modern newspaper establishment, complete in every detail, he was amazed. In the old days, when hand setting was used exclusively, when presses were immature, and newspapers were crude, Mr. Cameron was familiar with every detail in the make up of a paper.

"There has been a wonderful change in newspapers and their publication since my first memory of them 75 years ago," said he. "I always feel as though The Pittsburgh Gazette was under my guardianship, and I am delighted to see it progressing so finely, and really growing young. There is the difference between me and the paper I have read for so many years. It is getting more youthful and stronger every day, while I am getting old. This building here I am sure could not be improved upon in any detail. It seems to me to be complete. Everything has been thought of and evidently no expense has been spared to make the establishment the finest in Pittsburgh, as it unquestionably is."

The Oldest Subscriber.

Mr. Cameron is the oldest living reader of The Pittsburgh Gazette, and is proud of the distinction. For almost 77 years he has enjoyed its columns, and he regards it as the best newspaper of the age.

Mr. Cameron first saw a copy of the paper when he was 6 years old, and has been its constant friend since. "It was a copy of the Weekly Gazette," said he, "that a wagoner, traveled east, left at my father's house, about 1825. I remember it distinctly, for on its front page was the picture of a strutting turkey, which I cut out and took to school.

"Pictures were very rare in those days. Ever afterward I used to watch for the wagoners in order to get a copy of the paper. The Gazette was the best paper then, and it is the best now. It was always a paper noted for its veracity and, in the early days, people would swear by what they read in its columns. It has lost none of its glory.

"In the south slaves were constantly escaping, and from time to time pictures of the fugitives appeared in the Gazette. Up in old Shippensburg, where I was born in 1818, everybody watched for the paper as they would for a dear friend.

Readers Pleased at Progress.

"I am certainly glad to see the paper make such rapid strides. It must be a great pleasure to all its readers, and no one is more gratified at its progress than I. America should be proud of her editors. Nothing is of more benefit to the country than a live paper, like The Pittsburgh Gazette. It is a terror to the evil doers.

"In my boyhood days persons were always making explorations of the western country. I remember well of a man named Neadier going west. He settled in Beaver county. That was far west in those days.

"Soon after the big fire in 1845 I came to Pittsburgh from Huntington county. I made several trips south by boat.

Discovery of First Oil.

"I inspected the first oil well ever discovered in the United States. It was found at Pomeroy, O., which is a great salt producing country. Oil was discovered while drilling a salt well.

"I brought some of the oil to Pittsburgh and was the first man to attempt to refine it. At that time I was employed by Pearce, Mitchell & Co., who had a store at No. 60 Liberty street. I sent some of the oil to Sam Kier and we made experiments. I wanted to make something that would produce better light than the old tallow dips. In making my first experiment the oil exploded and almost caused a fire, but on my other attempts I managed to get a clear fluid.

"The firm, for whom I worked, sent me to Pomeroy to get possession of the well, but it had been destroyed by the salt water and that put an end to further investigations at that time. I was also employed on the old canal. In those days, when travelers used to go through the country, they were always welcome to stop with anybody over night, and nothing was ever disturbed.

"The way this country has developed in my time is a great revelation. Electricity, rapid transit and the power of the press has brought wonders. I have watched with interest the great progress made by The Pittsburgh Gazette during the past year, and I can safely say, without fear of successful contradiction, that the old lady is certainly growing young."

Mr. Cameron has been a resident of Bellevue since 1872. He married in Huntington county and his wife is still living. With him resides his son, Landis, and his widowed daughter, Mrs. Rodgers. One of his daughters married James Irwin of Bellevue. A granddaughter is the wife of Frank Bowman, manager of the Ritz-Conley Company. Mr. Cameron is in the real estate business, and, notwithstanding his advanced age, has the agility of a man 30 years younger. He can walk as fast as any 25 years old man in Bellevue. He walks erect and being tall, is a conspicuous figure.

ANOTHER OLD READER.

Died in Tarentum Recently. Carried Gazette to Subscribers Through Hostile Indians.

James McCall, who died recently at his home in Tarentum, had the distinction of having read the Gazette longer than any other person. In the early days it was not so easily obtained as at present. From Tarentum he had to journey on horseback to Pittsburgh for his news, and when returning he carried many copies to the residents of the Allegheny valley. In one of his trips, for the news and papers, the country was safe for the Indians, a stage [illegible] was [illegible] into [illegible] and [illegible] paper [illegible] on one occasion, while returning with the paper, he was met by two Indians, who tried to frighten him, but they allowed him to pass.

Mr. McCall was born in Westmoreland county in 1802, and crossed the Allegheny river into this county at the headwaters of Bull creek in 1803. For a short time he lived in Freeport, but the greater portion of his life was passed in Tarentum. He read the Gazette as early as 1807, and continued reading it until the time of his death. It ranked next to the Bible in his library.

When Henry Clay, the [illegible] candidate, visited Pittsburgh in the [illegible], a large pole was erected near the Monongahela house in his honor. Mr. McCall was present at the pole-raising.

His closing days were spent in a pretty cottage on the bank of the Allegheny river at Tarentum, his Bible and the Gazette being his companions. He died in 1886 at the age of 94 years. One son, R. S. F. McCall, Tarentum, survives.

Arrangements will be made for the annual banquet this month. It is expected that the Rev. Henry C. Minton, D. D., moderator of the general assembly, will be at the banquet and make an address.

FOUNDER OF GAZETTE.

John Scull's Widow, Who Died Recently, Told Many Anecdotes of Early Days.

Mrs. Anna Bonnet Scull, widow of John Irwin Scull and daughter-in-law of John Scull, founder of the Gazette, died March 12, 1890, at Steubenville, O., at the advanced age of 94 years. From childhood until the time of her death she was a reader of the Gazette, and frequently became impatient for its morning visit. No other publication supplied the place of the paper which her father-in-law had established, and which for a period was edited by her husband, in her affection. Mrs. Scull remembered the many annoyances the publishers suffered in the early days, when the paper on which the Gazette was printed was made in Reading, Pa., and was frequently delayed for several days while en route over the mountains, and frequently laughed, while relating the discomfiture her father-in-law experienced when, during the whisky insurrection, he tendered the use of one-half of his editorial space to Judge H. H. Brackenridge, the distinguished jurist and Democratic leader, Judge Brackenridge was a caustic pen, and Mr. Scull was apprehensive of the influence he might have with the readers of the Gazette, nearly all of whom were members of the Federal party. Mrs. Scull carefully preserved, and some of her descendants still retain, the manuscripts of editorials written for the Gazette by her husband.

FIRE THREATENED PARK.

Forest Fire in Allegheny Burned Three Acres and Gave Firemen a Hard Fight.

For over three hours yesterday afternoon the men connected with engine companies 10 and 14 of the Allegheny fire department, battled with a fierce forest fire near Riverview park. It was not until the flames had eaten up three acres of timber that the firemen were able to prevent its spread, and during that time fences and timber burned rapidly.

The fire was discovered at 4:20 p. m. yesterday afternoon and a still alarm sent in to engine companies 10 and 14. They responded immediately, but owing to the distance of the fire from a water plug, they experienced much difficulty in getting a stream of water to play on the flames.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have originated from a bonfire built by some boys.

The flames spread quickly and the smoke arose in dense columns. Birds and the smaller animals were compelled to seek safety in flight. A number of them were overcome by the smoke and burned in the fire. Squirrels scampered about seeking a place of shelter.

The flames swept toward Riverview park, but the firemen prevented the flames from reaching the timber of the park by coupling the hose, and making a line a quarter of a mile in length. Many fences were burned away, but aside from the timber, no loss. The property burned is known as the Marshall property, located between Marshall avenue and Riverview park.

BLAMED HIS CONGREGATION.

McKeesport Pastor Resigns, Declaring That His Pastorate Has Been a Failure.

The Rev. T. M. Hartman, D. D., of the Cumberland Presbyterian church of McKeesport, yesterday morning formally tendered his resignation. The pastoral relations, it is understood, are to continue until April.

He told the congregation bluntly that his pastorate has been a failure, due in great part to the congregation itself. The congregation accepted Dr. Hartman's resignation by a rising vote. Delegates from the session are to take his resignation to the Cumberland presbytery meeting.

Rauft Poisoned Himself.

Charles Rauft committed suicide yesterday morning at his home on Arlington avenue by taking paris green. Saturday night his wife gave him some money to buy a drink, and it is believed he purchased the paris green instead. During the night, he slept with his son, and aroused him several times for a drink of water. About 6 o'clock yesterday morning he became very sick and the boy hurried for a physician, but when the latter come Rauft was stiff in death. An empty box that had contained the poison was found by the bedside. Rauft was 40 years old.

Three Years' Work Reviewed.

The third anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. George E. Hawes, at the Parker Avenue United Presbyterian church of Braddock, was celebrated yesterday. There were large congregations present at both the morning and evening services. At the morning service the Rev. Mr. Hawes briefly reviewed the work that has been done by the congregation during that period. Among other things he said the congregation had been increased by 100 new members, and had raised a total of over $25,000 for church purposes in that time.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON

Endorses Pe-ru-na—Says "Pe-ru-na a Certain Cure for Catarrh."

Booker T. Washington, the famous educator, founder of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, has done more than any colored man now living, for the advancement of his race in this country. In a recent letter from Tuskegee, he says:

The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio.:

"Gentlemen—Your remarkable remedy, Peruna, is certainly excelled as a tonic. I have used one bottle and I can truthfully say that I have never taken any medicine that has improved me as much as Peruna. Peruna has my hearty commendation as a catarrhal tonic and a certain cure for catarrh."

BOOKER WASHINGTON.

What this noted man says of Peruna is true. The late President McKinley said of him in an address at Tuskegee: "He (Booker Washington) has won a worthy reputation as one of the great leaders of his race, widely known and much respected at home and abroad as an accomplished educator, a great orator and a true philanthropist."

Catarrh hovers ominously over every city, and nestles treacherously in every hamlet. It flies with vampire wings from country to country and casts a black shadow of despair over all lands. Its stealthy approach and its lingering stay makes it a dread to the physician and a pest to the patient.

Catarrh in some form, catarrh in some stage, lurks as an enemy in the slightest cough or cold.

No tissue, function or organ of the body escapes its ravages; muscles wither, nerves shatter and secretions [illegible] under its blighting presence. So [illegible] born and afflicted or cure is this disease that no [illegible] remedy to cure chronic catarrh has been the ambition of the greatest minds in all ages.

Is it, therefore, any wonder that the vast multitude of people who have been cured of chronic catarrh by Peruna [illegible] so lavish in their praise of this remedy? That the discovery of Peruna has done the cure of catarrh a practical certainty is not only the testimony of the people, but many medical men declare it to be true.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

TAKE THEM OUT.

Or Feed Them on Food They Can Study On.

When a student begins to break down from lack of the right kind of food, there are only two things to do: either take him out of school or feed him properly on food that will rebuild the brain and nerve cells. That food is Grape-Nuts.

A boy writes from Jamestown, N. Y., saying, "A short time ago I got into a bad condition from overstudy, but Mother having heard about Grape-Nuts Food began to feed me on it. It satisfied my hunger better than any other food, and the results were marvelous. I got fleshy like a good fellow. My usual morning headaches disappeared, and I found I could study for a long period without feeling the effects of it.

"After I had been using Grape-Nuts Food for about two months I felt like a new boy altogether. My face had been pale and thin, but is now round and has considerable color. I have gained greatly in strength as well as flesh, and it is a pleasure to study now that I am not bothered with my head. I passed all of my examinations with a reasonably good percentage, extra good in some of them, and it was Grape-Nuts that saved me from a year's delay in entering college.

"Father and Mother have both been improved by the use of Grape-Nuts Food. Mother was troubled with sleepless nights, and got very thin, and looked careworn. She has gained her normal strength and looks, and sleeps well nights." Don E. Cooper.

C. T. SCHOEN OUT OF CAR COMPANY

With His Son He Retires as an Officer and Sells His Holdings.

WILL DEVOTE TIME TO NEW CONCERN

Manufacture of Rolled Steel Wheels Will Engage the Attention of Distinguished Founder of the Pressed Steel Car Industry.

Charles T. Schoen, founder of the Schoen Pressed Steel Company and organizer of the Pressed Steel Car Company, has resigned as chairman of the board of directors and as a director of the steel car company. E. A. Schoen, his son, who under the organization of the company in 1899 became second vice president, retiring from that office at the last annual meeting in January, has also resigned as a director. Both have disposed of most of their holdings in the securities of the company. W. F. Schoen continues as first vice president.

CHARLES T. SCHOEN,
Who Has Retired from the Pressed Steel Car Company.

W. H. Schoen Continues a First Vice President.

Charles T. Schoen will now devote all his time to the new $5,000,000 company that he is linking with Charles M. Schwab and others to manufacture rolled steel car wheels in a great plant to be erected near Aliquippa. It is understood that his son will be associated with him in the new enterprise.

The directors of the Pressed Steel Car Company have accepted the resignation of Charles T. and E. A. Schoen and have left both places vacant for the present. It is possible that with the retirement of Charles T. Schoen the office of chairman of the board of directors will be abolished. President F. N. Hoffstot, who has been the active head of the company since the last annual meeting, will in that event add the duties of the chairman of the board to his own. Mr. Schoen has not been active in the affairs of the company since the last annual meeting, simply presiding at the meetings of the board of directors.

Prior to the present fiscal year of the car company, President Hoffstot was chairman of the executive committee of the company. Charles T. Schoen was then the president of the company. Since retiring from the office to become chairman of the board of directors Mr. Schoen, who is responsible for the introduction of the steel car and many of the patents under which it has reached a high degree of perfection, has not been active in the physical improvements, which have been made. Chief Engineer John M. Hansen has been ably following Mr. Schoen's lead to further develop the steel car and to introduce new lines of manufacture.

President Hoffstot has been working hard and successfully since the organization of the company to place it on a strong financial basis. Under his executiveship changes have been brought about that have made the company a vastly better operating interest and production of perfect cars in the great plants has been gradually increased.

The company now has contracts booked that will engage it at a maximum output of all plants far into next year. The Pressed Steel Car Company has a stock issue of $25,000,000, equally divided between common and 7 per cent non-cumulative preferred stock and $5,000,000 in 5 per cent bonds. In addition to the preferred a 4 per cent dividend is being paid on the common stock. The present fiscal year was started with business booked ahead amounting to $15,000,000. The gross earnings last year were over $22,500,000 and surplus from this, after paying the preferred dividends, over $1,200,000.

Unlike most strong medicines, it isn't a poison. It is an expeller of parasites and disease germs, and a good nourisher for muscles, nerves and brain—Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge.

RUPTURE

The thousands of cases of Rupture I have treated successfully ought to convince any person that I can effect a genuine cure, no matter how severe the Rupture may be. Investigate the testimony of my patients. I cure Rupture so that it will stay cured. I have demonstrated this so often that no authority anywhere can find grounds to challenge my claims. Avoid cutting operations—they are not only dangerous, but painful as well. My treatment is not dangerous. I inflict no pain, do no cutting, and will not keep you from your daily duties.

To Rupture Sufferers:
I was afflicted with a rupture on the left side since childhood. About 3 years ago both sides became ruptured very badly. A friend, Mr. Wm. Wilt, of 1015 Chestnut Ave., Altoona, Pa., told me to go to Dr. Geo. B. Wix, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and he could cure me, as he had cured him some time before. I did so and now am entirely well on both sides. Have not worn any support whatever since February, 1901. I would advise anyone who is ruptured to take Dr. Wix's Electro Chemic treatment, for it will surely cure rupture.

See that Spot!

You dont, but your friends do.

Why don't you have it covered It can be done. The trouble is not chronic, but functional. It is caused by a weakened condition of the hair follicle, due to a microbe that feeds upon and destroys the delicate mucous membrane with which it is lined.
The hair-root, deprived of its nourishment, gradually becomes weakened, shrivels up and the hair easily falls from its collapsed follicle.
This very common condition—known as premature baldness—is overcome by the use of Cranitonic Hair and Scalp Food, the only safe and scientific cure for all hair and scalp diseases. It strikes at once at the seat of the disorder, destroys the microbe that causes it and assists in feeding the weakened hair-follicle back to health.
Cranitonic Hair and Scalp Food is not greasy or sticky, and contains no disagreeable or dangerous sediments. It is clear, pure as crystal, and delightful to use. Its odor is pleasant—yet not pungent. The important thing is—it grows hair.
For Sale by Druggists at $1.00 the bottle, or sent, expressage prepaid, upon receipt of price by the Cranitonic Hair Food Co.
SPECIAL NOTICE—If you have a thinly-covered spot like that shown above you are becoming prematurely bald. Don't wait until your case becomes chronic. Write the Cranitonic Hair and Scalp Institute, 526 West Broadway, New York City, and send a small sample of your hair combings; state in your letter if you have dandruff, falling hair or itching scalp, when our physicians will make a microscopic examination of the hair, mail you a report upon its condition and prescribe curative treatment free of charge.
To all who send hair we will mail free a 48-page illustrated book, entitled "Hair Cure;" also a sample of the Cranitonic products.

RNEGIE WILL OT BE PRESENT

though in This Country, He Will Be Absent on Founder's Day.

FIRST INQUIRIES WERE FOR PITTSBURGH

The Great Ironmaster Landed in New York on Saturday—Denies That More Money Was Asked for the Proposed Polytechnic School.

Andrew Carnegie will not be in Pittsburgh on Founder's day, though, contrary to expectations, he arrived in New York from Scotland a week or two earlier than had been anticipated, and in abundance of time to be present at the exercises next Thursday. Samuel Harden Church of the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute authorized that statement yesterday. Mr. Carnegie will probably not come west before the first of next week.

Mr. Carnegie has never in the past attended a Founder's day celebration, owing to his natural desire not to intrude his personality into a celebration that he does not choose to consider wholly a tribute to himself, but more an annual stock taking of the great institutions that had their inception in his generosity.

Mr. Church yesterday stated positively that the committee on plan and scope for the new Carnegie polytechnic school had come to absolutely no conclusion on the subject of a site for the new institution.

"We have not reached that stage when we could get together on the matter of site," said Mr. Church, "and we have not attempted to reach a decision upon it, even informally. We have suggested the size of the site, and the scope of the project in our preliminary report to Mr. Carnegie. We have not received his acknowledgement of its receipt, our first information on that score being his own statement, in interviews with him in New York Saturday. He must first approve these preliminary plans and later approve the site before the location will be fixed upon."

Carnegie Talks Freely.

Mr. Carnegie, his wife and little daughter arrived in New York on Saturday afternoon on the American liner St. Louis, and his first inquiries, when he stepped ashore, were of Pittsburgh. A small army of newspaper men gathered at the dock to meet the ironmaster, and, in excellent humor, he talked freely. The voyage had been uneventful. On the subject of the Pittsburgh technical schools, he said:

"Good progress has been made on the plan. The matter is still in an immature state, however. The committee which was appointed, and which has been so carefully studying the scope of such an institution, has submitted a report to me and I expect to take up the matter as soon as I reach Pittsburgh. As to this report, all that I can say now is that it is most gratifying and thoroughly American in its tone. I consider it worthy of Pittsburgh. I shall probably know more of the plans when I reach Pittsburgh. I do not know fully what I shall do regarding this report. As to the story that the Pittsburgh committee had asked me for $5,000,000 or any other sum for the building of the new schools, all I can say is that such a committee as that one is would be incapable of asking me for anything.

Activity Pleasing to Him.

"I am much pleased with the way the city has taken hold of the matter of securing the additional room for the Carnegie institute, and I hear that the land that is needed has been secured, and that work on the extensions of the buildings can be undertaken in a short time."

Beyond these expressions Mr. Carnegie declined to make any definite statements on the Pittsburgh matter. Launching out on general topics Mr. Carnegie was asked his views on the statements before the industrial commission by President C. M. Schwab of the United States Steel Corporation regarding the possible exhaustion of the Connellsville coke fields within the next 30 years.

"The Connellsville coke fields may play out in 30 years, but Mr. Schwab will not."

"How about the proposed combination of English steel manufacturers on the same basis as the United States Steel Corporation?" was asked.

"Now, you know," he said, "I am not in the steel business any more. I have reformed. I have heard that there was some talk of such a plan in England, but I do not think that it will ever be possible. My reason for this is that every Englishman is like an island. He lives by himself. Englishmen do not work together in business like Americans. They are not so placable. They like to work alone and accomplish all they can singly. In America the spirit is more for unity in operating."

Would Not Talk on Strike.

As to the results of the recent steel strike, Mr. Carnegie said that he did not care to express himself in the matter. He added with a merry twinkle, "I am a journalist, sir."

"Ambassador White said you were full of good things for the future?"

"Ambassador White spent a happy week with me at Skibo castle, and when I confer with a man like White I always feel full of good things. He is one of our most valuable men."

Judge Josiah Cohen's recent statements as printed in a New York paper, were referred to, in reference to the benefactions of Mr. Carnegie in Pittsburgh. In reply to this Mr. Carnegie said that he knew Judge Cohen and nothing pleased him more than to hear of his being elevated to the bench.

Just before sailing, Mr. Carnegie heard of the honor that had been paid him by St. Andrew's university of Scotland. His election to the rectorship, he says was showing the good will of the boys.

"You know I am always popular with the young fellows," he said. "They elect a rector, not because of wealth or fame, but simply because they think he is a good fellow. This election is had by the students who vote for the candidate with perfect freedom. It was a source of delight to me to hear of their kindly feelings." When asked if the rectorship was significant of a possible sermon to the young men in the future, Mr. Carnegie laughingly replied:

"I do not think I shall be called to preach to the students, but if I should be I would preach very little of theology to them and a whole lot of religion."

New Gifts to Museum.

Among the objects to be exhibited for the first time at the Carnegie museum on Founder's day are the following:

Silver model of "Santa Maria," presented by Mr. Carnegie; casts of Aztec memorial stones preserved in the National museum, Mexico, Mr. Carnegie; specimen of the white rhinoceros shot at the headwaters of the Nile by Maj. Gibbons of the British army; a portion of the collection of the hawks of Colombia, S. A., made by H. B. Smith, mounted by C. A. Link; collection of mammals mounted by F. S. Webster; group representing the rhinoceros Hornbill, mounted by F. S. Webster; numerous specimens of North American birds, mounted by F. S. Webster; skeleton of Titanotherium collected by J. B. Hatcher and mounted by A. S. Coggeshall and associate; numerous skulls of extinct mammals collected by Paleontological expedition of 1900; hind limb of Diplodocus Carnegii, collected by O. A. Peterson. Paleontological expedition of 1900, mounted by A. S. Coggeshall and associate; Daemonelix (devil's cork screw), collected by J. B. Hatcher, mounted by A. S. Van Kirk; the Zuni bride, modeled by Theo. A. Mills; life mask of Abraham Lincoln, made by Theo. A. Mills 60 days before the assassination of Lincoln; case containing historical relics of old Pittsburgh; collection of casts of Indian carvings at Smith's Ferry, Pa., made by Theo. A. Mills, A. S. Coggeshall and associates.

Four cases containing the collection of anatomical models presented in 1898 by Mr. Andrew Carnegie have also been installed in the lecture room on the first floor.

GREAT CROWDS HEAR LEMARE

ENGLISH ORGANIST CORDIALLY GREETED AT CARNEGIE HALL.

It Is Expected That He Will Be Asked to Succeed Frederic Archer as City Organist — Thousands Throng Phipps Conservatory the Second Sunday of the Chrysanthemum Show—Many at Highland.

Thousands attended the organ recital in Carnegie music hall given by Edwin H. Lemare, organist at St. Margaret's, London, yesterday afternoon. Hundreds more were unable to gain admission. Nearly every member of the music committee as well as the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute was present. It is believed that Mr. Lemare will be tendered the place made vacant by the death of Frederic Archer.

George H. Wilson introduced Mr. Lemare and his appearance was greeted with hearty applause. Of the eight numbers played, probably the favorite of Pittsburghers was the introduction to the third Andantino in D flat. It was composed by Mr. Lemare and sold for 3 guineas. It netted its publishers almost $25,000. It was a favorite selection of Organist Archer, and it never sounded sweeter than when played by the composer yesterday afternoon.

At the conclusion of his recital Mr. Lemare said: "I have not been formally tendered the position of city organist by the board of trustees, nor have I any assurance it is to be offered to me. In case it is I cannot tell you what answer I will give. My work in England is very pleasant, and it would be hard to have to leave it. I had no difficulty with the organ to-day. It is one of the best instruments I have ever seen, and the best I have played on since coming to the United States. It is complete in every detail."

The second Sunday of the chrysanthemum show at the Phipps conservatories in Schenley park was by far the banner day of the splendid exhibition. Every day last week crowds thronged the buildings, and yesterday it is estimated that almost 10,000 people viewed the mums. Excursion visitors were many. They came in over the Baltimore & Ohio, the Allegheny Valley and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroads. About 30 new varieties of mums were placed on exhibition Saturday evening, and in all about 200 new plants.

There was a special exhibit arranged yesterday in the main palm house. This show was known as a corner of freaks, and it attracted the attention of almost every visitor. Among the curious flowers in the corner were: Thread-like petal varieties, thistle-headed ferns, green flowered forms and stag-horn petal varieties. The flower that attracted general attention among the new varieties to yesterday was the E. M. Bigelow. It is of a deep crimson red color and very hardy. About 25 plants of this variety were brought up from the propagating houses yesterday morning.

Highland park was crowded yesterday afternoon. Driving parties have never been so many this year. Not a few were the picnic parties, and the people as on a day in the height of summer hunted the cool and shady spots.

Manager Ernest Tretow was busy yesterday afternoon receiving congratulations on a handsome girl baby that arrived last Wednesday evening.

BANK ROBBER RESCUED.

Charles Lowery Taken from Train in Ohio by Two Men—Blinded Guard With Pepper.

Charles Lowery, alias C. A. Taylor, was rescued from George M. Bowman, a guard of the Ohio State penitentiary, while en route from Canton to Columbus on a Cleveland, Akron & Columbus train Saturday afternoon. He was convicted of robbing the Chadron, Geauga county bank, the conviction resulting from the identification furnished by Detective T. C. Johnson of Allegheny.

Lowery, James Gallagher and three accomplices robbed the bank of Chadron, Ohio, after securing the officer of the town and holding him a prisoner while they blew open the safe. Each of the gang was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Lowery was taken to Canton Wednesday to testify against Mike Moran, presumed to be another member of the gang, and was on his way back to the penitentiary.

When the train slowed up at Westerville two men entered the car and seated themselves near Lowery. Suddenly one of them hurled a quantity of cayenne pepper into the guard's eyes, while the other turned toward the passengers with a revolver in each hand and ordered them not to interfere. Placing Lowery in front of them, the strangers left the car. They pulled the bell rope and when the train slowed up they jumped off. They met a milk dealer on the road and upon his refusal to carry them, took his vehicle. That was the last seen of the trio.

Lowery's pal, Gallagher, who is now serving a sentence in the Columbus prison, was sentenced from Butler county for robbing a bank and served several years. While walking along Sterling street with Sheriff Towey Allen of Butler county, he threw pepper into the eyes of the sheriff and attempted to escape. After a chase of several blocks on Preble avenue he was captured and taken to the penitentiary.

FIRED INTO A CROWD.

Angry Negro Kills Two Persons and Fatally Wounds Two Others.

ROANOKE, VA., Nov. 3.—Meager details were received here today from the little town of Ferrum, Va., about 30 miles from Roanoke, on the Roanoke & Southern railroad, of a tragedy at that place last night. A negro named William Hale took exception to some remarks made by a white man at a political meeting, and leaving the hall went to his home, where he armed himself with a double-barreled shotgun, loaded with buckshot, returned to the place where the speaking was being held, and fired both barrels into the crowd. A white man named Robinett, who was the village blacksmith, was killed instantly, and John Thomas, colored, received wounds from which he died shortly afterward. The other men, both white, but names thus far not learned, were probably fatally wounded.

Hale made his escape, and thus far has not been captured. Bloodhounds were sent to the scene by morning. There are no trains on the Roanoke & Southern road on Sunday and the telegraph office is closed. Hale is said to be a desperate character.

New Hampshire Town Damaged.

LISBON, N. H., Nov. 3.—Fire destroyed a large part of the business section of this town today. The total loss will amount to fully $100,000, with insurance of between $50,000 and $60,000.

Weak?

Then you want strength. Good food, an active liver, and pure blood will bring it. You naturally think of eggs and milk, Ayer's Pills and Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Ask your doctor if he can come any nearer to the truth. Do as he says, at any rate.

"For 25 years I have never missed taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla every spring. It cleanses my blood, makes me feel strong, and does me good in every way."

CONFESSED TO HIS MISDEED

Conscientious Action Places David Gilson in an Ugly Situation.

HE DESERTED FROM THE ARTILLERY

Came to America, a Russian Jew, and Enlisted in the Army—Deserted and After Becoming a Christian, Confessed.

Imprisoned in a military prison awaiting trial by court-martial and possibly heavy punishment, all for conscience sake, is the strange condition of David Benjamin Gilson, until three weeks ago a prosperous bookbinder of Wilkinsburg.

Gilson, as his name has been translated into English, for his real name is unspeakably Russian, is a Russian Jew, about 24 years of age. He came to this country several years ago, and started out to make his fortune. It was his ambition to earn enough money to bring his mother and sisters, who are poor, from their home in Southern Russia to America. He got out of work and drifted one day into a recruiting station in New York. He enlisted in the Fourth United States artillery.

He was sent to Fort Washington, on the Potomac. While on duty there he was taken with malarial fever. This malady seized him again and again, and much of his time was spent in the hospitals.

While enfeebled in body and mind by the fever last February, he deserted. Escaping through the lines, he found a boat and crossed the Potomac to the Virginia side. From there he went to Washington and found his way to Philadelphia.

Early last spring, while still in Philadelphia, he accepted a position as bookbinder, that being his trade, in the Pittsburgh Carnegie library. He came here and began his work, going under the assumed name of David Lilm.

The old malarial complaint seized him, after he had been here only a short time, and he went to the Homeopathic hospital. Later he went to the South Side hospital. In August he went as a convalescent to St. Barnabas' home, South Side. In the home he came in contact with Christian instruction, and at once became interested.

J. K. Bakewell took an interest in the young man from the first, being attracted to him by his apparent sincerity. He gave him a Yiddish Bible, and, after careful study, Gilson announced that he believed in Christ as the promised Messiah of the Jews, and wanted to be baptized.

He was baptized one Friday in August in St. Mark's Episcopal church. He frequented the Jewish mission in Congress street and seemed to take great interest in Christian work.

He opened a book bindery in Wilkinsburg, and in a few weeks had a good patronage. Every prospect was promising. But the memory of that night, when he crossed the dark Potomac in a rowboat, haunted him.

One day, about three weeks ago, he called at Mr. Bakewell's office and confessed the misdeed. He asked Mr. Bakewell when he would be going to Washington, and asked that he might go with him, as it was his determination to go there and give himself up. The trip to Washington was soon arranged and Mr. Bakewell accompanied young Gilson to the fort. Gilson's former captain had been transferred to another post, so the deserter surrendered himself to the officer in charge, Capt. Newbold.

Capt. Newbold expressed amazement at the young man's action, saying that he had never heard of such a case before. No efforts were being made nor had been made to find Gilson, as his health was so poor as to unfit him for service. Conscience was his only motive—not fear of being caught. He sacrificed his business and freedom, because he felt that it was his duty.

Mr. Bakewell enlisted the interest of the Rev. Dr. J. M. Schick. President Roosevelt's pastor, in behalf of the young man, and also saw Commissioner MacFarland, of the District of Columbia.

Dr. Schick, who has been attending the convention of the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip here, said yesterday that he had called upon the assistant attorney general and the assistant secretary of war, both of whom have given him the assurance that everything possible will be done to give Gilson an early trial. They expressed the hope to Dr. Schick that the circumstances connected with the desertion would be looked upon as extenuating, and that the sentence would be light.

TUNNEL PLAN AGAIN REVIVED

SOUTH SIDE TUNNEL COMPANY TO BE ORGANIZED

With Capital of $400,000 It Will Tunnel Mt. Washington—Expects to Derive Revenue from Leases of Tunnel—Short Line to Towns Beyond the Big Hill—New Charter to Be Applied For.

James M. Bailey, head of Phillips, Nimick & Co., operating the Sligo mills on the South Side, and W. H. Nimick of this city are organizing the South Side Tunnel Company, which at an expenditure of $400,000, plans to start work next spring on a tunnel 3,500 feet long from near the South Side end of the Smithfield street bridge to a point near the present tunnel of the Pittsburgh & Castle Shannon railroad, in the Thirty-second ward.

The project is a revival of a plan on practically the same lines as that abandoned nearly two years ago. The company will take out a new charter in Pennsylvania, through Attorney A. W. Neeper, to cover any alterations of the old plans in relation to the course of the tunnel which may be determined on. The project is simply to provide a short cut in the road to Carnegie, Ingram and other boroughs, and a quicker route for the traction lines desiring to enter a lease arrangement.

It is understood that no arrangements have been closed with the traction interests for the use of the tunnel, the men in the enterprise simply going ahead, in confidence that the tolls for the use of the subway as a roadway and for traction purposes will be sufficient to make it a profitable investment.

The plans include a brick-arched subway about 30 feet wide, to be double-tracked for traction purposes. The work of new surveys and new detail plans have not yet been placed in the hands of an engineer. Robert A. Carter, who was associated with Mr. Bailey when the tunnel project was well under way before, is understood not to be actively connected with to present plans. Mr. Bailey controlled the Castle Shannon railway property when the tunnel project was up before, but has since disposed of these holdings.

George W. Wilson and others, who are promoting a new traction line to Washington, Pa., including a tunnel through Mt. Washington, are not known to be cooperating in the present tunnel project. At the time when the Wilson tunnel interests incorporated the Mt. Washington Tunnel Company it was stated that they would not take up the Bailey project, which was then supposed to be finally abandoned.

EPILEPTIC FITS

Mr. Shaffer had Epilepsy from infancy until he was cured by Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer.

NICHOLAS SHAFFER

EPILEPTIC FITS
—BY—
WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER.

The letter printed below tells of a nervous system disordered at birth and continuing into manhood, being successfully cured by Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer. Surely such testimony is convincing evidence that it will cure Nervous Prostration, St. Vitus' Dance and all of the milder forms of nervous diseases. A postal card will bring to any one more proof of this fact.

I have been troubled with Epilepsy all my life; some times would have three or four convulsions a week while at other times I would not notice them for several weeks. I tried several kinds of medicines advertised to cure such troubles, but did not get relief. I learned of Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and gave it a trial and can honestly say I felt a greater improvement in using it than at any other time in my life. I keep it in my house all the time and recommend it to everyone who is suffering from such nervous troubles. Nicholas Shaffer, West Liberty, O.

WELVE PAGES.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

With the installation of The Gazette in its new building and power plant—celebrated Saturday night with the presence and congratulations of thousands of our friends—the present management is for the first time in a position to carry out satisfactorily the plans had in contemplation when the paper was purchased. The paper has now a completely modern equipment, embracing every improvement in mechanical appliances, and meeting every requirement of twentieth century journalism. The beginning of this new era in the history of the paper is a fitting time to carry out an intention which has been cherished from the first; namely, to return to the original name of the paper, that which identifies it as Pittsburgh's oldest institution, and by which it has invariably been known by all old Pittsburghers, and almost wholly so by the public generally—the old historic title of The Pittsburgh Gazette.

As is well known, the name "Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette" was brought about by the consolidation of the Pittsburgh Commercial with The Pittsburgh Gazette in 1877. The Pittsburgh Commercial was favorably known as a young and enterprising paper, but the career of The Pittsburgh Gazette was associated with the founding of the city, with the settlement and growth of the whole of the great west, and with the expansion of the nation from a seaboard tier of colonies to a continental domain of republican empire. From the pioneer days of 1786 The Pittsburgh Gazette has always been regarded as the organ of the industrial, the political and the social interests of the country west of the mountains, and as it is just these characteristics which it is the chief desire of the present management to strengthen and perpetuate, it has seemed altogether appropriate to return to the old historic name, so that today and hereafter, this paper will be known simply as The Pittsburgh Gazette.

Apart from these considerations the use of the name "Commercial" was something of a misnomer as it suggested a limitation to the scope of the paper that was not in accord with its character. While The Pittsburgh Gazette pays special attention to giving full and accurate commercial news, it is much more than a commercial organ, for it is a complete newspaper covering the entire field of civic and social activities. The restrictive qualification implied by the name of The Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette became the more objectionable in view of the fact that it was the intention of the present management to issue a Sunday edition as soon as the proper equipment had been installed. A Commercial Gazette seemed out of place on the weekly day of rest, when there is a cessation of business activity, and the broader interests of human welfare claim attention. But such a development is directly in line with the traditions and principles of The Pittsburgh Gazette. We are aware that this statement may be questioned, but we shall not argue it. It is not obvious that the vast change in social conditions and requirements since pioneer days, implies such a development as this on the part of a paper which aims to be the organ of the social life of the community, no argument would be convincing. Every newspaper of the class of The Pittsburgh Gazette, that has been able to acquire the necessary news facilities, has been compelled to respond to the public demand for a Sunday edition, and now that we are in a position to issue a Sunday edition, we shall undertake it as a part of our proper service to our readers. The first Sunday edition of The Pittsburgh Gazette will be issued November 10, and will consist of six sections, containing 44 pages, price five cents a copy.

The Thanksgiving Proclamation.

In his proclamation appointing the last Thursday of November as the national Thanksgiving day, President Roosevelt [illegible] another sincere tribute to his predecessor. The assassination of President McKinley was the one calamity of the year for the American people. It was fitting that it should receive the touching reference that President Roosevelt gives it—an announcement of the grief of the nation over the loss of a great and good president, and the determination that the manner of his death shall not drive our people from the path of strong, orderly and popular liberty.

Notwithstanding this deep sorrow, there are many reasons for gratitude on the part of Americans. President Roosevelt is strictly within the facts when he says that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. These reasons are apparent to all readers of newspapers, who are enabled to compare the conditions of life in this country with conditions elsewhere, from the published reports, and they ought to be able to corroborate the printed news from their own personal experience. The year has been one of great prosperity and it is gratifying to believe that this prosperity will continue. Thanksgiving day should be celebrated, as President Roosevelt recommends, not only with thankful lips and hearts, but also with deeds.

Summing Up the Campaign.

In summing up the features of the state campaign that closes tonight the absence of sound argument on the part of the enemies of the Republican party will strike the observer most forcibly.

There have been several weeks of fierce campaigning, confined, it is true, principally to the eastern part of the state, but in all the appeals to the voters there has not been advanced one real, logical reason why life-long voters of the Republican faith in Pennsylvania should turn aside at this juncture in our history and place in positions of trust the candidates of a mongrel organization that is neither Democratic nor Republican, but a fusion of the dissatisfied elements of both. The stock argument of the fusionists has been vilification and nothing else, over against which are the positive facts that the state was never in a more prosperous condition; that the commonwealth's finances were never better administered, and that the treasury is in absolutely clean hands.

The attack upon Justice Potter, so shamelessly persisted in, is a sample of the fusion campaign material. Judge Potter has gone on his way, conscious of the motives that have instigated the vile assaults, and by the dignity of his demeanor has more firmly intrenched himself in the esteem of his fellow citizens. Again, the charges of fusionists that the last session of the legislature was notoriously corrupt are as foolish as they are untrue. The most corrupt assaults upon the state legislature that ever occurred in Harrisburg were those that marked the attempts to defeat the candidate of the majority of Republicans, for United States senator, and the present campaign is but an effort of the same interest to dominate politics and legislation. Slander and misrepresentation are the weapons to that end.

Examined in the light of reason and fact, the arguments of the fusionists resolve themselves into abuse—the cheapest weapon of political propagandists. The people of Pennsylvania will not be deceived by the appeals that are based upon villification.

Buffalo Exposition Closed.

The big Pan-American exposition that came into existence in the city of Buffalo in May last closed its gates on Saturday night, after a history of ups and downs. That the big fair was a money loser goes without saying. We doubt whether the Buffalo show would have made money even with the absence of several unfortunate mishaps that overtook it. The Paris exposition, with world wide advertising and situation in a city of immense population and prestige lost money. At Buffalo a number of things militated against the financial success of the enterprise. The delay in the opening cut a large slice out of the attendance. Visitors from the South American states and many thousands from different sections of this country delayed their going to Buffalo until fall expecting to attend the numerous fetes and special exercises that usually mark the closing months of exhibits of this character. The terrible tragedy in the Temple of Music on September 6 in which the president of the nation was fatally shot by the anarchist, Czolgosz, destroyed all these expectations and put a damper upon the exposition from which it never recovered.

The actual attendance during the time the gates were open is put down at 6,000,000. This, of course, means a large deficit in the resources of the enterprise, estimated to be $3,000,000 or more. Buffalo did handsomely by the exposition, supporting it loyally and giving visitors the best entertainment within its power. That city will no doubt be a large beneficiary of the fair, and it deserves all that will accrue to it in the way of advertisement. Expositions are not money makers, but they have proven themselves of vast benefit from an educative standpoint.

Progress of Wireless Telegraphy.

Although still in its infancy wireless telegraphy is making remarkable progress as a method of communication. It is but a short time since its availability was first mooted, yet it has already passed the experimental stage and won recognition as a permanent factor in the field of endeavor. The recent tests between land stations and steamships demonstrated that wireless telegraphy had come to stay, and in the meantime there have been developments exceeding the anticipation of its promoters.

The greatest achievement thus far recorded is the success of the Italian government in establishing communication by the wireless system between the mainland and Sardinia, a distance of 100 miles, and the results are reported as excellent. The French government has under contemplation the same connection between its possessions on the northern coast and its colonies in the interior, the message to be flashed over the great desert of Sahara. There is every reason for believing that complete success will reward the efforts of the French, and that the impetus thus given to wireless telegraphy will hasten its adoption throughout the world as a means of communication.

Recorder Brown has done valiant campaign service. His activity and industry in the interests of his party have been productive of good results wherever he has appeared on the stump.

As the case now stands most of Mr. Bryan's former southern following is too busy whooping it up for Booker Washington to pay much attention to their old idol.

Those party wrecking Republicans who will tomorrow lend their aid to fusion have, we trust, provided themselves with return tickets.

Woolcerts Roost has not figured to any great extent as a campaign issue in New York city this year.

Mr. Croker's letters will doubtless bear the Wantage postmark after this week.

What a head Billy Penn will have the morning after.

It is all over now but the shouting.

KIND WORDS OF OUR NEIGHBORS.

From the Leader.

The magnificent new building recently erected by the Gazette on Virgin alley and intended to be jointly occupied by it and the Chronicle Telegraph and Volksblatt and Freiheits-Freund, was thrown open to the public last night. The affair was in the nature of an inspection and reception and brought out a large number of prominent people of the two cities and county.

The guests were received on the floor devoted to editorial rooms and the offices of the management, by George T. Oliver, president of the company; W. R. Rowe, business manager; H. J. Ford, managing editor; J. P. Hirsch, George S. Oliver, assistant business manager; L. F. Bailey, manager of circulation, and members of the editorial staff.

The guests were escorted through the various departments. On the top floor of the four above ground, the type setting machines, which so rapidly throw into readable form the great mass of local and telegraphic matter constituting a daily paper, were kept running especially for the instruction of those who had never seen them operate. The floor below is used as a stereotyping department, and for the art and circulation departments. Next below this is the section set apart for the writing and editorial forces, and a reception room. These are specially equipped. Much interest was displayed in the press rooms, where are erected three giant machines, which will issue thousands of papers per minute. Below ground are the boiler rooms, the engines and dynamos, as well as the distributing offices, from which the papers are given to carriers and newsboys.

In all its departments the new Gazette building is one of the finest equipped newspaper plants in the country. Special attention has been given to the matter of comfortable quarters for the forces employed in the different departments of the paper. In addition to the elevator service, comfortable offices for the writing department, circulation department and other conveniences, the decorations are in good taste and neat.

The new managers of the three associated papers were the recipients of many congratulations from the large crowd that visited them last night.

From the Dispatch.

The new plant of The Pittsburgh Gazette, Chronicle Telegraph, the Freiheits Freund and the Volksblatt was opened for public inspection last night. The combined newspapers are housed in a handsome building in Virgin alley, opposite City Hall—a fine specimen of modern newspaper architecture, commodious and well equipped in every department.

Mr. George T. Oliver, one of the principal owners of the papers, was on hand to welcome the guests, who came in a steady stream from 8 until 11 o'clock. He was efficiently assisted in this function by his son, Mr. George S. Oliver, who is associated with him in the management of the papers. Not only members of the newspaper fraternity, but numbers of representative people, many of them personal friends of the Messrs. Oliver, called, all of whom testified to the advancement which has taken place in the wonderful appliances for printing and publishing over those formerly in vogue.

Later on the combined plant will have a business office befitting its importance in the new building which Mr. H. W. Oliver is to erect on Smithfield street, including the whole block from Virgin alley to Sixth avenue. The Messrs. Oliver were deservedly the recipients of the happiest congratulations last night on the liberality of the enterprise and the excellence of the judgment in which they have displayed in providing a permanent home for their publications.

From the Post.

At the invitation of The Pittsburgh Gazette, 2,000 representative people of Pittsburgh last evening inspected the new editorial and power building, 335, 337 and 339 Virgin alley, which will be used jointly by it with the Chronicle Telegraph, the Volksblatt and Freiheits Freund. Leading attorneys, business men, ministers, city officials and newspaper men were among the visitors. A large number of ladies also attended the reception.

The management of the papers received in the reception rooms on the second floor. The editorial and reportorial staff acted as ushers, showing the visitors through the building from cellar to garret, or more properly from the press and mailing room in the basement, to the circulation, editorial, engraving, stereotyping and illustrating departments on the upper floors. The visitors had the opportunity of seeing how every detail of a modern newspaper plant is operated.

One of the most interesting features to many was the display of original cartoons and drawings in the art department. Many also watched with interest the work of stereotyping and photo-engraving, while the evolutions of the big improved presses were a source of wonderment to a large percentage of the visitors.

In the mailing room a nice luncheon was served. Cigars and refreshments were freely dispensed on the other floors. An orchestra placed in the telegraph room played popular airs of the day.

From the Press.

The Pittsburgh Gazette and the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph last evening formally celebrated the occupancy of the new home of the two newspapers, erected this summer on Virgin alley, immediately below Smithfield street. The Volksblatt and Freiheits Freund, German newspapers included in the property of the Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph, participated in the formal ceremony. The public reception commemorating the "at home" was attended by several thousands of the friends of the newspapers, who were eager to see the inside workings of a modern newspaper. An orchestra furnished music for the occasion, and refreshments were served.

The following well-known newspaper men officiated as the reception committee, aided by the combined forces of the Pittsburgh Gazette, Chronicle Telegraph, Volksblatt and Freiheits Freund: George T. Oliver, George S. Oliver, Robert Simpson, managing editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette; H. J. Ford, directing editor of the Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph; William R. Rowe, business manager of the Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph; I. F. Bailey, superintendent of buildings; A. C. Farr, managing editor of the Chronicle Telegraph; Isaac and Lewis Hirsch, associate editors of the Volksblatt and Freiheits Freund; D. L. Patterson, Jr., city editor of the Chronicle Telegraph; W. H. Sivtier, C. M. Bregg, William Anderson, L. W. Strayer, W. P. Beazell, T. H. Boice, George Seible, Frank Jenks and Charles Metzgar.

The "at home" was greatly enjoyed by the hosts which shared in the hospitality of the newspapers during the evening. All the visitors pronounced the plant one of the finest in Western Pennsylvania.

Mozart's Skull.

From the London Standard's Vienna Telegram.

The skull of Mozart, which, since the death of Prof. Hyrtl, who kept it in his house, has been transferred from one place to another, has now found its final home in the museum at Salzburg. The relic was handed over with all the solemnity befitting the occasion. An attempt was made some time ago to substitute another skull as that of Mozart's for the one preserved by Prof. Hyrtl, but the fraud was discovered; upon which, in some mysterious way, the supposed skull disappeared and the genuine one was restored to its place. Every care will be taken at the Salzburg museum of what is the only known portion that is left of the great composer's remains.

NEW YORK NOTE BOOK

Andrew Carnegie Declines to Be Drawn Into the Political Fight in Gotham—Tammany's Hope Fades Very Suddenly.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building,
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.

Andrew Carnegie arrived in New York and says just what he was expected to say—that he will not be drawn into a partisan political fight in this election. His indignant outburst, on board the steamer, "I will not be cross-examined. I have not been stealing chickens," was characteristic of him. If it was hoped by Tammany that they could obtain an indorsement of their ticket by Mr. Carnegie, they have found out their mistake. Most likely, however, Tammany never had any such hope. It was making a powerful bluff—that was all. Mr. Carnegie has always been conservative. He is a shrewd man of cosmopolitan experience, and he would not be likely to commit himself inadvertently to the support of any party or measure. Politics was evidently a distasteful subject to him when he was interviewed on the deck of the St. Louis yesterday, and it was an unlucky reference to the situation in this city and his own possible part in the contest that brought the conference between Mr. Carnegie and the newspaper representatives to an abrupt close. It will please Pittsburghers to know that Mr. Carnegie looks better than when he went away. When he left New York last spring there we unmistakable indications in his appearance that the strain of important business had told a little on his health. Mr. Carnegie is always "in condition," as athletes say, but it is evident that his long vacation in Scotland and his short run on the continent have done him good. Pittsburghers will soon have an opportunity to judge for themselves of Mr. Carnegie's state of health and spirits, for he will surely be with them before long.

Pittsburghers Going Abroad.

There were several Pittsburghers on the Cunarder Campania when she sailed from New York for Liverpool yesterday. Among them were Mr. S. W. Atterbury, Mr. H. C. Hutchins and Mr. A. J. Lloyd.

Estimate on the Vote.

That the vote in Greater New York will be remarkably close is shown by the result of a poll made of the five boroughs by the Herald. While the poll is not offered as giving absolutely certain figures, it may be taken as a fairly good indication of the outcome on Tuesday. Low has the best of it, but his plurality, estimated at 18,883, is based on a slight excess of votes in Brooklyn borough, and a still smaller one in Richmond. In all the other boroughs which make up this great cauldron of life and bustle we call New York, Tammany seems to have more strength than its opponents. This means that in Manhattan and the Bronx, and the community across the East river, which used to be known as Long Island City, but is now called Queens, Tammany still holds the balance of power. Brooklyn, notwithstanding that it is Mr. Shepard's home, gives according to the polling taken, 110,783 for Low, against 87,900 for Shepard. Brooklyn does not like things "wide open," and it always has been anti-Tammany. Mr. Shepard thought he could break the hoodoo; but it seems he cannot.

Candidates Are Very Busy.

In the interest awakened by the mayoralty contest in Greater New York, the public is not troubling itself about the smaller fry of candidates. The fight for the district attorneyship is watched with some interest, on account of the activity of Justice Jerome in making revelations of unspeakable abuses in the tenement districts, which, he charges, are largely the fault of the district attorney's office. But minor offices, such as seats in the assembly and on the board of aldermen, are passed over with a casual glance by most people. The candidates are busy, however. The electioneering that is going on for the less important offices is unceasing. Cigars, beer, luncheons, suppers and other indications of hospitality are abundant, and the voter who goes hungry, and particularly thirsty, just now, is a poor creature indeed. There never were more free drinks and cigars on the East Side than at this time, and it will be a sad thing for many and many an independent voter when the passing of election day leaves no incentive to candidates to "set 'em up."

Van Wyck's Chances Fading.

The veto is something of a boomerang. This is a principle long recognized by politicians, and Mayor Van Wyck is painfully reminded of it now. It is brought against him that he vetoed more than 40 bills affecting the interest of New York city in the last session of the legislature. It is held that a large number of these bills were meritorious and their passage was demanded by the people living in the parts of the city affected by their provisions. The mayor would probably declare that he could not conscientiously sign the bills if he were to say anything at all on the subject. While no one can condemn him for acting according to his conscience, it is unfortunate for him, for, amid all the debates as to whether this or that name on the two tickets will be voted for by large majorities, no one seems to doubt that Robert A. Van Wyck, candidate for a seat on the bench of the supreme court, will be snowed under several fathoms deep.

Postoffice Clerks Rushed.

Election times always affect work in the postoffice. There is a continuous flood of election circulars and campaign literature generally going through the postoffice and it keeps clerks and carriers going steadily more hours than usual. All are working overtime, and for the last few days there has been busy times indeed in the great building where Uncle Sam does business in New York city.

A Political Leader's Duties.

There are many peculiar duties falling to a political leader in Greater New York. Since "Big Tom" Foley knocked out Paddy Divver for the leadership of the Second assembly district he has been called upon to attend numerous christenings, weddings and funerals, and at a number of christenings he was pressed to become sponsor for the baby. An Italian named Lambrosino asked his leader the other day to become the godfather of his little boy. "But," said the leader, "wouldn't Tom Foley Lambrosino make a peculiar mixture of names?" "Oh, that's all right," said the Italian. "We call him Tommazo Foletti Lambrosino."

A Family of Ferrymen.

Ferrying runs in the blood of the Cole family of Brooklyn. John Cole, engineer on one of the Fulton ferryboats, is the only living representative in the third generation of the old time ferryboat men. "My father, John Cole," says he, "was a pilot on this same ferry for 50 years, and my grandfather, Moses Cole, who used to be called 'the father of the ferries,' was ferry master at the old Jackson street ferry a century ago. He first ferried people across the East river in a rowboat and afterward ran one of the old catamaran boats that were propelled by horses."

When the Organ Ceased.

Here is a yarn I heard today that may be true. In a small church on the East Side the "power" that runs the organ is supplied by the arms of a lusty Irishman. This morning something went wrong in the middle of a hymn, and the choir fell into momentary confusion. As the music stopped a strident whisper came from the space behind the organ, commanding them to "sing like divils, for the bellows is busted." The remainder of the service was conducted without music.

Regret for Stokes' Death.

Uptown tonight there are many expressions of sadness over the death of Edward S. Stokes. Just sadness, that is all. It can hardly be said that the passing away of this well-known man about town has caused deep grief outside of his immediate relatives, because he was not the kind of a man to make close friends. A good fellow, in the ordinary acceptation of the term, he did not give confidences freely, nor ask for them from others. Stokes was a fine specimen of the handsome, well-groomed clubman, who, sufficient unto himself, seldom allowed the wishes of other people to stand in the way of his own aims. With enough wealth to satisfy his rather luxurious tastes and a knowledge of the world that disposed him to cynicism, he passed along his own path easily, comfortably and steady, and, until ill-health removed him from the sight of upper Broadway, was regarded as a person to be envied, in his perfect satisfaction with the scheme of creation. Possibly he was not as happy as he looked, but as no one knew it in his lifetime, none can say it now that he is dead. The tempestuous experiences that came to him in the early seventies left their mark upon his life, and those who met him frequently fancied that he never entirely forgot them. "Poor Ed. Stokes" is the common exclamation tonight, and then the conversation switched to another topic.

Paid Well for a Shave.

Judge William E. Werner of the court of appeals has probably received the highest price ever paid for a shave. His father-in-law visited him recently, and on the first day of his visit said he would give $100 for a shave. Judge Werner immediately responded: "I accept the offer" and proceeded to shave his parent-in-law. A few days afterward Mrs. Werner received a check for $100 from her father. Judge Werner's success as a barber will not, however, cause him to change his vocation from that of the law.

Mme. Nordica Arrives.

Mme. Nordica is here. She arrived yesterday on the St. Louis. She says she will not sing in grand opera for Maurice Grau this season, but will give a number of recitals in the large cities between New York and the Pacific coast. She did not care to say why she will not be one of the Grau song birds this season, contenting herself with saying that it "just happened so."

Another Grill Room.

Grill rooms are necessary adjuncts to the swagger hotels nowadays, and every hostelry in upper Broadway has that institution. The Navarre hotel, which is of comparatively recent establishment, has just added a grill room, and the habitues of Broadway restaurants, ever on the lookout for a new sensation in that line, are flocking over to the Navarre to see what they have. It is a matter almost of religion for the uptown crowd to visit every new place of entertainment, and if the new offering meets the general approval, it is sure to become fashionable. In a district like this, where everyone is looking for jollity and fun, very few of the new places fail for lack of patronage, so long as they are conducted on business lines.

The Latest Theatrical Story.

One of the wildest theatrical yarns that ever floated up and down Broadway got loose yesterday. It was that Weber and Fields might have Nat C. Goodwin and Maxine Elliott in their burlesque company next season. One of the papers sent a cablegram to Mr. Goodwin in England to ask if the report was true. Mr. Goodwin cabled back: "Send that question to Puck." All this is on the authority of the paper referred to. The story went that Weber and Fields had offered Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin $80,000 for 80 weeks' work, and, on that offer not being accepted, had increased the figures to $100,000. While Mr. Goodwin is said to feel that the idea is ridiculous, his admirers do not forget that he used to play in burlesque, and very well, too. As Weber and Fields have Lillian Russell and De Wolf Hopper in their company, it does not seem so wild a notion that they should be after Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin. Even a star like Mr. Goodwin might be willing to pocket his professional pride if he were paid highly enough.

College Yells in Evidence.

Suggestions of football were to be seen up and down the Great White Light district, except the tenderloin, last night and today. College men were numerous at all the theatrical performances last evening and the rythmical bellowing of cabalistic expressions by dozens of lusty throats proved that the college yell was still in good fettle, notwithstanding the desperate efforts of most of the yellers on the football field. The young men were orderly enough. That they must have some outlet for their feelings, whether of triumph or sorrow, was recognized on all sides, and everyone seemed to be in sympathy with the youthful energy that made itself heard and felt until past midnight. Many of the young men were in town today, and, while they were in evidence at the sacred concerts and in hotel lobbies [illegible], there was a decorum in that demeanor that told of the respect due to Sunday, which is an innate sentiment with all Americans of decent family.

THANKSGIVING DAY FIXED.

President Roosevelt Issues a Proclamation Making the Date November 28.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt has issued his proclamation fixing November 28 as the day of national thanksgiving. It follows:

The season is nigh when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the president appoints a day as the especial occasion for praise and thanksgiving to God. This Thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good president. We mourn President McKinley because we so loved and honored him, and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people a keen anxiety for the country, and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty which as a nation we have thus far safely trod.

Yet, in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material and have been able to work for our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual. Let us remember that as much has been given us, much will be expected from us, and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips, and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which on this earth and at this time each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations, and at their several homes and places of worship reverently thank the Giver of all Good for the countless blessings of our national life.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-sixth.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
By the President:
JOHN HAY, Secretary of State.

APPROVE DAVIS' SPEECH.

Attitude of United States Toward Latin American States Affords Gratification.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3.—Senator Davis' speech in the pan-American congress upholding the territorial integrity of the Latin American republics, also disclaiming any designs against them on the part of the United States and affirming strongly the Monroe doctrine, created much discussion.

The liberal papers approve it. Don Filomeno Mala, editor of the radical liberal paper, El Diario del Hogar, regards the utterance as sure to have the happiest effect among the liberals throughout South and Central America.

From a High Viewpoint.

Now you know when to give thanks.

President Roosevelt has signed the turkey's death warrant.

Recent investigation shows that Populism is not so populous in Kansas as it was.

Guessers on election results will soon go out of business.

They have doused the glim at Buffalo. King Edward refuses to make good the reports of his approaching demise.

Li Hung Chang's illness this time is not of the diplomatic variety.

President Roosevelt has a little business to attend to at Oyster Bay tomorrow.

In the reorganized navy perhaps orders will be sent direct to the officers who are expected to execute them, instead of being forwarded in magazine articles after the war is over.

The blanket ballot is so large that it will be difficult to see the man behind it.

All Oyster Bay will turn out to witness the spectacle of a president of the United States casting his ballot.

The organization of a pallbearers' union in Chicago is another phase of a grave subject.

With his name newly-twisted about, Mr. Thompson-Seton may have to be reintroduced to those wild animals he has met.

Having got his Thanksgiving proclamation off, President Roosevelt does not need to write that document with one hand and his message to congress with the other.

Influence of Food.

"What do you think of the theory that food has a potent influence in determining character?" asked Mr. Smithfield, as he put three lumps of sugar in his coffee.

"I guess it's all right," replied Mr. Wood, as he severed a portion of his beefsteak. "It always seems a little cannibalistic to me when you order lobster."

"Well," retorted Mr. Smithfield, good humoredly, "I ought to have known it was dangerous to lend you money after I discovered your fondness for beets. But seriously, if there were anything in the theory, wouldn't it make a man sheepish to eat mutton?"

"It would, and prize fighters ought to restrict themselves to a diet of scraps."

Same Old Date.

"President Roosevelt made no radical change in the date for Thanksgiving day, anyhow," remarked Mr. Squirrel Hill.

"No; he did no rough riding over the last Thursday of November," added Mr. Murray Hill.

Its Dimensions.

"That European war cloud is no larger than a man's hand," remarked the Philosopher; "but there is no telling to what dimensions it may grow."

"I should say that it was considerably larger than a man's hand," replied the Philosopher's friend.

"Should you?"

"Yes; I should say it was about the size of a Chicago girl's foot."

Meeting a Crisis.

"Effendi!" said Abdul Hamid, peevishly.

Abdul Hamid had been gazing seaward through a telescope from the top story of a minaret.

"Your humble servant is here," salaamed the grand vizier.

"Those wicked French warships are really coming. I thought I instructed you to say that I wasn't at home to visitors!"

MRS. CLEVELAND will be Pittsburgh's guest this week, as well as her distinguished husband, ex-President Cleveland, when he comes to be the principal speaker at the exercises of Founder's day in Carnegie Institute. The admiration that Mrs. Cleveland inspired throughout the whole country when she went to the White House as a bride has increased during late years in her quiet home in Princeton and at Buzzards Bay. Pittsburgh women would hail with delight an opportunity to show her honor by entertaining her in their homes this week. But aside from the shortness of the time Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland will be in Pittsburgh is the fact that Mrs. Cleveland is in mourning for her stepfather, and naturally would discourage any effort to entertain her privately. The wives of the members of the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute would avail themselves individually of the opportunity to entertain her.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland are expected to arrive in Pittsburgh on Thursday morning and will be entertained at the Hotel Schenley during their brief stay in the city. After breakfast they will be taken for a drive through the parks and over the boulevards, returning in time for lunch. At 2:30 the exercises in Carnegie Music hall will commence.

Mrs. Cleveland will occupy one of the boxes with Mrs. William N. Frew and other ladies, wives of the trustees of the institute. At the conclusion of the exercises a formal reception will be held in the art galleries, when every one will have an opportunity to meet the only living ex-president of the United States and his beautiful wife. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland will dine at the Schenley and in the evening at 8:15 o'clock will attend the opening concert of the Pittsburgh orchestra.

It is very likely that Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland will leave on a late train for the east Thursday evening.

A Housewarming in Shadyside.

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. George Heard in Bayard street, is one of the handsomest of the new colonial houses that have been recently erected in the East End. The first large entertainment given by them was one of the events of social prominence on Saturday afternoon. They received from 3 o'clock until 7 and the reception was of unusual interest. The house was designed after the suburban colonial style, with broad porticoes and wide halls, spacious apartments and cosy ingle-nooks. The house is planned for large and hospitable entertainments. The woodwork of the interior is almost entirely of mahogany, with softly harmonizing mural tones in the various apartments. In the broad hall Saturday were vases of American beauty roses. Pink roses were in the drawing room, with its delicate white and gold finish in the period of Louis XVI., white chrysanthemums were in the library, with its restful green-tinted walls, while in the dining room with its tapestried walls were pale yellow chrysanthemums. There, after the reception, a dinner was served in honor of the assistants of the afternoon, together with the husbands of the matrons.

Mr. and Mrs. Heard received together, the hostess wearing a gown of white crepe de chine trimmed with Irish point lace. Assisting them were Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, Mrs. Samuel Ayres, Mrs. Winfield S. Arter, Mrs. Edwin Bindley, Mrs. John Elton, Mrs. Lewis Brown, Mrs. James I. Buchanan, Mrs. Charles T. Neale, Mrs. John L. Garner of Denver, Col.; Mrs. Albert J. Logan, Mrs. John Porter, Mrs. John Fisher, Mrs. Mortimer Miller, Mrs. James H. Reed, Mrs. William A. Smith, Mrs. Edward A. Brainard, Mrs. H. A. Marlin, Mrs. Emmett Queen, Mrs. Thomas Liggett, Mrs. Omar Scott Decker, Mrs. John P. Fulton of Kittanning, an aunt of the hostess; Mrs. Anna Duff, Miss S. H. Killikelly, Miss Taylor, Miss Neale of Sewickley, and Miss Aiken.

Mrs. Thaw's Afternoon Tea.

Mrs. William Thaw gave a delightful little afternoon reception and tea on Saturday at Lyndhurst in honor of Mrs. Mabel Loomis Todd, the wife of Prof. David P. Todd of Amherst college. Mrs. Todd received with Mrs. Thaw, and assisting them were Miss Alice Thaw and a number of the younger girls. The house was prettily though simply decorated with flowers from the conservatories of Lyndhurst. During the afternoon Mrs. Todd gave an informal talk of her travels through Japan and the impressions gained there. Mrs. Todd is an extensive traveler and has accompanied her husband, the well-known astronomer, on many of his expeditions. She is an astronomer herself of distinction. For nearly an hour she entertained and delighted the ladies asked to meet her by her charming conversational talk of the flowery kingdom.

Luncheon for Mrs. Beach.

Miss Jackson was hostess Saturday afternoon at Pelham, the Jackson residence in Homewood, her guest of honor being Mrs. Frank Beach of New York. Miss Jackson gave a luncheon for Mrs. Beach, the small tables being surrounded by almost 40 ladies. There was one large central table in the middle of the spacious dining room, surrounded by four smaller tables, each seating six guests. The decorations were entirely in yellow and green, yellow chrysanthemums, dainty yellow shades covering the candles in their ornamental sticks, and orange tinted confections contributing their share in emphasizing the delicate color scheme.

Mrs. Bullock's Reception.

Mrs. Frank M. Bullock of Stratford avenue, East End, gave an afternoon reception on Saturday for her young daughter, Miss Jessie Cornelia Bullock. Mrs. Bullock took this means of introducing her daughter, one of the debutantes, to her friends. Miss Bullock graduated last summer from Cornell. Assisting the hostess and her daughter were Mrs. James C. McDowell, Mrs. George B. Motherat, Mrs. Charles S. Crawford, Mrs. Groshens, Miss Pearl Cropsey and Miss Josephine Dinger.

MEETING WELL ATTENDED.

Second of the Popular Indoor Gospel Meetings in Exposition Music Hall.

The second of the popular indoor Gospel meetings was held in Exposition music hall yesterday afternoon. Duss' band and a large chorus, under the direction of Benjamin F. Butts, furnished the music. Miss Caroline Kyle was the soloist. The services were attended by an enormous crowd.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. S. Edward Young, upon the following text: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." Proverbs xxii. 1; "My record is on high." Job xvi. 19; "Son, Remember." Luke xvi. 25.

He said in part:

"Living is like typewriting with two carbons, one copy preserved by fellowmen, one filed in heaven, and you keep the original. Escape eternal fame, glorious or ignoble, can none.

"Take heed to the transcript of yourself, treasured in our present world. Name; nobody so inconsequential but he or she must choose repute laudable or repute damnable. As former-age plants and animals fossilized themselves into their rock-diary; as earth epochs lithographed themselves on geologic stone, so you pen your own biography bit by bit in other people's lives, every man, every woman a round-robin, a patchwork, whereto a multitude contribute."

Mr. and Mrs. Martin's At-Home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stephen Martin gave the first of their series of musical at homes Saturday afternoon. It was largely attended. Mr. and Mrs. Martin were assisted by Mrs. Martin's sister, Mrs. Robert Lee Wilson, who came on from New York; Miss Kennard and Miss Louise Kennard. The informal musical program was rendered by Miss Grace Hamilton, Miss Jean Ralston, Miss Annie Tindle, Miss Katherine Ellis, Miss Ada Reno, A. S. Cowperwaite and W. H. Duff.

The Fight for Players Is Still Being Warmly Waged

EAGUE LEADER NOW THE TALK

ck Young Is Thought to Be o Old to Carry on Things in a Baseball War.

LUB OWNERS ARE THE REAL HEADS

hey Are the Ones Who Define the Policy and Will Continue to Do So—Patsy Donovan Has a Hard Job Ahead.

It begins to look as though the National league will have a new leader to ide its destinies in the future. This nge is likely to be made in December n the club owners gather at the Fifth nue hotel in New York for their an- meeting. As the famous ten-year t has expired there will be a reorganiion of the league and with this reorganization will come the much needed nge in presidents.

There are already rumors in the air as Nick Young's successor, and during the st week the name of A. G. Spalding as mentioned in connection with the osition. This is the same report that was sprung last year about this time. It is hardly likely that Mr. Spalding ould be induced to accept the position indeed, he says so himself, and he should know what he is talking about. Mr. Spalding is a man of great wealth and with such a number of irons in the fire already that he would have little or no time to devote to baseball. He is the head of the bicycle trust and that is one job that keeps him busy. That he has no time for other things is shown by the fact that he has men employed to look after his sporting goods, baseball and other business affairs. There is no doubt but what he would prove the proper man for the position, being an old player himself, and he has the best interests of the game at heart, but he has made his pile and wants to enjoy it in a quiet way and is therefore not likely to want to bother with a baseball war.

Club Owners Will Boss Things.

There are many people who will be sorry to see Uncle Nick Young step down and out of baseball harness. He has been at the head of things so long and has been so honest and faithful in his services that he has really become a part of the game. The cry is now that the league needs an aggressive leader in order that he may be able to cope with such a strong antagonist as Ban Johnson. That's all right and it might be wise for the league to have a younger man than Uncle Nick at the head of its organization, but it is extremely doubtful if any man, no matter who is named outside of A. G. Spalding, will be allowed to run things to suit himself. The league is already possessed of such able leaders as A. H. Soden, John T. Brush and Andrew Freedman, and they will define its policy the future just the same as they have the past. There is no doubt about their ability in this line, so that after all the president of the league will be to the future just what he has been in the ast, nothing more than a figurehead. The club owners are the men who have the money invested and they are the men who are going to direct the league's olicy and not the president.

Our old friend and former companion, atsy Donovan, is having more than his ull share of trouble this year trying to atch up to a team for Frank De Hass Robison, and in order to contend against a threatened strong move in St. Louis Patsy thinks that if he can only induce two of his alleged jumping stars to return to the Cardinal field all will be well and the men he wants most are Burkett and Wallace. Of course, he would be glad to have all the old players back, but with the two named as a starter he is satisfied that he could build a winning team around them, and there is not much doubt about that. He has had two heart to heart talks with the players in question, but so far nothing definite has been done.

All Depends on the Contracts.

Donovan seems to think, or he may have a tip on it, that Burkett and Wallace have simply signed agreements to play in the American league and have not affixed their signatures to contracts. He admits that if they have signed contracts that is all coy with the league for because the players will not jump contracts, and what is more, neither he nor Mr. Robison would ask them to do so. It seems a pity that a man like Wallace should be compelled to sign a pledge of this kind. Mr. Robison is evidently laboring under the impression that the revolt on the part of his stars is only a scheme in the salary-boosting line, but Donovan knows better than this. A baseball war has produced a state where the player and not the club owner is the boss of things, and if money will turn the trick the best thing Mr. Robison can do is to produce and save the team from utter ruin. He has a valuable plant out in St. Louis, but its value is not amount to shucks if he cannot get the people as good an article of ball as his opponents. The arrival in this city of Manager Selee has caused a revival of that silly talk sprung a week or more ago that Selee was to make room for the loss of Hart. President Dreyfuss was going to contribute a player or two, and one player named was Conroy. This report has met such an emphatic denial that it hardly seems necessary to again refer to it, except to show the utter absurdity of such a thing.

It will be remembered that during the past season Third Baseman Tommy Leach was the victim of an accident, or rather to his legs, which kept him out of the game for a long time. In fact during the last two weeks of the playing season he never even donned a uniform. That injury was a peculiar one which physicians or surgeons were unable to account for, and were likewise unable to fix up. The only man who could afford any relief at all was the Hot Springs doctor, and his relief was only temporary. Leach's leg would break strong one day, but the next it would go utterly back on him and he was then told that the leg needed a long rest. How there is no telling whether that leg will ever come around all right, and in view of that the club must have a man for Leach's place. Burke proved a clever substitute, still he was not exactly the man wanted, and Conroy was secured at no small cost in a salary way. In case Leach comes around all right Conroy will only be needed as a substitute infielder, but if Leach's injury proves permanent then Conroy will be needed as a regular member of the team. In any event he is a good man to have about, and entirely two good a player to be given away.

Ready to Back the Stars.

When the Homestead football eleven goes down to Philadelphia to meet the all star eleven of the Quaker City on the 23d of this month it will be accompanied by the largest delegation of rooters ever sent out of Pittsburgh with a team. The loyal followers of the game have taken it into their heads that this is to be the real game of the season, and a little thing like a journey of 350 miles is not going to keep them from seeing it. The Homestead people will send down quite a delegation and there will be other delegations from this city, so that the stars will find plenty of rooters to cheer them on to victory.

The stars, by the way, showed some of their real speed in the second half of Saturday's game against State college when they played the college boys right off their feet. In fact the work was so strong and fast that some of the stars went down under the telling test. Another thing noticed with gratification by the followers of the team was that Capt. Fultz has not given all of his time to the development of his regulars, but he has his substitutes so thoroughly drilled that any of the regulars may drop out and there is an equally fast man to take his place. The backers of the team saw to it that Capt. Fultz would not be handicapped by a lack of good material and furnished enough men to make almost a substitute eleven. The fast work of the regulars was kept up by the subs when they were called on to take up the brunt of battle. It was this fast, clean work that gave the experts a direct line on the team's strength, and when they line up against the Quaker stars there will be plenty of Pittsburgh money backing it for a winner.

Never has a pluckier team appeared on a local gridiron than the State college eleven. Capt. Hewitt's boys were over at Exposition park on Saturday afternoon and there was the largest crowd of the season present to greet them. It must have been apparent to them after the first five minutes of play that they were up against them, but that did not feaze them any and they went at it hammer and tongs until the last minute of play had expired. They were beaten 39 to 0, but they were not degraded by long odds.

The contest was by far the best of the season, and it was the kind of a game that the spectators could enjoy. The State boys put up a strong defense, but in offensive work they did not cut much of a figure. They put up a grand game in the first half, but in the second, when the Stars warmed up and started in on fast work, the State players became dazed and could not stand the pace. This fast, hard work told heavily on Fultz' men, and some of them were laid out. Winstein and Bemis Pierce going to the ground for breathing time. In the first half Hawley Pierce kicked the first goal of the season on the local grounds. In the second half Capt. Fultz gave his subs a chance to display themselves, and they demonstrated that they are fast enough for any star team. McCutcheon made a pretty play when he got the ball on a fumble and made a run of 45 yards. The score and line-up:

Out at Schenley park a large crowd saw W. U. P. defeat the California State Normal eleven by a score of 15 to 0. The Normal eleven played a very strong game and made W. U. P. produce the best football it had in its shop to score a victory. McConnell was the W. U. P. star in the ground gaining way, having run up a total of 80 yards to his credit. Paul McClain also put up a fine game for the local eleven. The score and line-up:

There was another of a surprise party down at Columbus, O., when the Ohio Medical eleven fought the strong Wash.-Jeff. eleven to a standstill, and the game ended without either team being able to score. The battle was a fierce one all the way and kept the crowd in a very high enthusiasm. The W. & J. goal was only in danger once, when the Meds. tried for a field goal from a place kick, but it was missed. The W. & J. team had the ball close to its opponent's goal twice, but could not push it over. The score and line-up:

WILL ARRIVE TO-DAY.

The Brown 'Varsity Team Coming Early—Stars Will Get Their Cup Tomorrow.

The Brown 'varsity eleven which is to meet the Homestead Stars at Exposition park tomorrow afternoon will arrive in this city this morning, coming direct from Cambridge, where the team was defeated by Harvard on Saturday afternoon. The visiting eleven will make headquarters at the Monongahela House, and this afternoon will practice either at Exposition park or at Steel Works park, Homestead, both of which will be tendered for use.

Manager Fultz reported yesterday that his players were in much better shape than he expected. He had worked some of his cripples, notably Poe, Hunt and Richardson, and to his surprise found that the hard work had been beneficial rather than injurious. He worked all his players excepting Mosse, whose leg was in bad shape, but "Texas" has rounded to and will be in form to take a whack at the 'varsity team. The meeting tomorrow will be in a measure a line-up of ex-Brown stars against present stars. Fultz, Gammons, Richardson and Hunt of the Homestead team are all graduates of Brown, and played on the 'varsity eleven.

The Homestead officials will make tomorrow's contest a sort of a gala affair. The trophy cup offered by the Gazette and won by Homestead last season is to be presented to the Stars just before the game starts, and in order to properly celebrate the event the Homestead Library band will be on hand to enliven the occasion with musical selections. The band has prepared a fine program of music to be rendered during the halves.

FIGHTING FOR THEIR PLAYERS

Frank De Hass Robison Joins Manager Donovan in the Chase for Stars.

SAID TO HAVE MET THEM IN SECRET

There Was a Report That the Millvale Boy Was Offered $5,000 to Remain With the Cardinals. Much Secrecy About the Affair.

That Patsy Donovan has redoubled his efforts to secure the return of Players Burkett and Wallace to the St. Louis team is shown by the fact that he has succeeded in arousing Frank De Haas Robison to the importance of the situation, and every effort is being made to secure the return of the players mentioned.

There was a report last night that Frank De Haas Robison had run over here from his home in Cleveland to assist Manager Donovan in securing the return of the players. President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club said last night that he was not aware of Mr. Robinson having been here. Mr. Dreyfuss said he had met and talked with Wallace and Hedrick on Saturday afternoon, but they did not intimate to him whether they intended to stick to their old club or jump to the new one; in fact, he did not ask them any questions concerning their future intentions.

A special from Cleveland on the subject says: "Instead of Jesse Burkett and 'Bobby' Wallace coming to Cleveland to meet President Frank De Haas Robison of the St. Louis club yesterday, Mr. Robison is reported to have quietly slipped out of town and met the St. Louis ball tossers, together with Manager 'Patsy' Donovan, either at Pittsburgh or at some remote place between Cleveland and that city.

"At any rate Mr. Robison was not at his home in Glenville last evening when a reporter called to verify the report that he was attempting to get Wallace and Burkett back into his fold. Both are supposed to have signed contracts with the new American league club which will invade St. Louis next season.

"Mr. Robison is on his way home,' was the information given the reporter at the home of the baseball magnate. 'He is on the cars now, according to a telegram received a short time ago, and will surely be here in the morning.' No other information would be given out.

"Neither Chief Zimmer nor Ed McKean knew anything of the new deal to get Burkett and Wallace back into the National league. Neither had seen the men and each declared that if either was in the city they would surely know of his presence.

"'I've heard a pretty good rumor about Wallace,' remarked McKean. 'A story is going the rounds that President Robison recently entered him into his private office and said: "Well, Bobby, I've drawn up a contract here for you next season. I'll make the price $5,000 for your services. How's that?" I am told that Wallace refused point-blank to sign the contract, but at the same time declined to say whether or not he has accepted American league terms.

"'I know one thing about that little man, however, that may not be generally known. If Wallace attaches his name to an American league contract all the money Frank De Haas Robison or any other magnate may offer will not tempt him to break his agreement. He's a square, honorable fellow.'

"'How about Burkett?'

"'Well, it's a little different with him, perhaps. Jesse is out for the money. I can't believe that he has signed a contract with either league, and am inclined to believe that he's toying with the magnates.'

"If President Robison succeeds in getting the two National league stars to sign St. Louis contracts again for the coming season the fact is bound to leak out within a few days. There is no doubt that he is losing considerable sleep in worrying over the supposed capture of those men by the American league agents and if this report be true, make some glittering offers to procure the re-inlistment of them for next season. In all probability the offers were made yesterday."

YALE'S ELEVEN GETS BACK HOME

THE PLAYERS PRESENT A SORRY LOOKING SIGHT.

Hogan and Weymouth Injured and Others Are Overtrained—The Tigers Got a Hearty Greeting on Their Return to Princeton—Harvard's Team Will Have a Busy Time Getting Ready for Game With Pennsy.

(Special Telegram to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 3.—The Yale football team returned from New York this evening with gloomy faces. The players all show the strain of yesterday's struggle with the West Point cadets. Hogan limped badly as he got off the train this evening, and so did Weymouth. Olcott, De Saulles and Swan all show unmistakable evidences of overtraining. The entire team needs a rest and unless the players get it at once, they are not likely to be worth much on November 16, when the blue will line up against Princeton in this city. The only explanation of Yale's poor showing at West Point yesterday is that the team is stale. It is not strange that this should be true when one considers the hard work that the players have been put through during the season. The lack of fresh substitutes has made it necessary to keep the eleven players selected for the varsity at the very beginning of the season in the harness all season.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Princeton's victorious players returned here from Ithaca early this morning and were greeted with loud and long cheers from the Orange and Black supporters. The men are in perfect health, and aside from a few minor bruises not a player, with the exception of Mills, who had the ligaments of his ankle broken, is laid up from the effects of the hard game with Cornell. That the outcome of the present week's practice will bring forth is yet to be seen. Princeton's record so far has been clean, Cornell being the only team to score against them.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The coming week will be a busy one for Harvard. Yesterday's game against Brown showed up in a strong light many of the weaknesses of the team and the work of the coaches within the next few days will be to remedy these defects. The worst feature was a deplorable tendency on the part of the Crimson players to fumble the ball nearly every time it was thrown into their hands. Against a stronger team than Brown this error would have been fatal yesterday.

As one of the coaches said, the big score was due not so much to Harvard's strength as to the pitiful weakness of the visitors, and it was because of this fact more than anything else that Harvard's fumbling did not result in any costly losses.

THERE IS JOY AT LATROBE.

The Town's Football Team Sets the Enthusiasm Going.

LATROBE, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The game of football played on Athletic field Saturday between the L. A. C. and the first team from Jeannette, has aroused red-hot enthusiasm. Saturday night the streets were crowded with hundreds of enthusiasts discussing the exceptional playing of Latrobe's own homespun team. The only elements lacking for an old-time ball-over were the glare of fireworks and tooting of trumpets. "Beck" Lawson, L. A. C.'s invincible fullback, made a 60-yard run and touchdown after 3½ minutes play. The play outplussed Jeannette. "Beck" Lawson made a 40 and 50-yard run. Hacha, a L. A. C. guard, was cheered by the 800 spectators while running 40 and 60 yards and dodging the whole Jeanette team for touchdowns. Murray, L. A. C. tackle, and every member of the team, seemed to daze the tall, heavy team from Jeannette, which failed to score, while the L. A. C. piled up 18. The boys will average 20 years of age and 136 pounds in weight, and represent leading and well-known Latrobe families. Some 2,000 boys were carried through the crowded Diamond Saturday night. For next Saturday's game the champion Mount Pleasant institute team is booked.

Says Matty Is All In.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Danny Green, who was out with Matthewson on a barnstorming trip, says that he is afraid that the use of snap in delivering curves may have given the New York twirler a permanent injury. "All he could do when pitching was to lob them off," said Green.

"If Matthewson loses his ability to pitch," remarked Clark Griffith, "it will be an explification of my old saying that a pitcher with speed is foolish to use a curve."

BILL INGLIS BLAMED.

Held Responsible for Wash.-Jeff.'s Failure to Score Against the Ohio Meds.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The W. and J. football team returned this morning from Columbus, all being in good condition considering the hard contest they had, and while somewhat disappointed over the result, are not in the least discouraged. It was principally due to the medic's coach, W. D. Inglis, the famous W. and J. athlete, that the team from his alma mater did not score. Coach Knight is not altogether satisfied with the work of the team on the offense and the line did not hold as good as usual. W. and J.'s left end was also off form and was blocked in on one occasion, which resulted in a long run for the Medics.

W. and J. will meet Bucknell next Saturday at Exposition park, Pittsburgh, and this will be one of the hardest contests of the season. The Bucknell team uses to a certain extent the same style of play as W. and J. The Ohio Medics also used the same style and it was W. and J. tactics against W. and J., with experienced men on the Medical team to put them into effect, while the men at W. and J., for the most part were inexperienced. The practice this week will be hard.

ARD S. STOKES DEAD.

...er of Jim Fisk Expires in New York.

...ORK, Nov. 3.—Edward S. ...s killed Jim Fisk, and was in... with Jay Gould in Wall street, ...e home of his sister, Mrs. Mc... this city yesterday afternoon. ...been seriously ill for several years ...his death has been expected for some Edward S. Stokes.

...time. When death came, Stokes' head was resting on the arm of his faithful negro valet, Harry Dennist. Mrs. McNutt was the only relative present.

Rosamond Barclay, who was Mr. Stokes' companion for years, and who claims to be his wife, has not as yet revealed her plans, and it is not known whether or not she will put in a claim for the property.

Edward S. Stokes was born in Philadelphia, April 27, 1841. His father, Edward D. Stokes, was a wealthy business man of that city and his mother, Nancy Stokes, was well known in society. In the palmy days of Jim Fisk, Stokes was largely interested with him in business ventures and was a man of large means. At one time he was one of the proprietors of the Hoffman house. He served a term of years in the penitentiary for the killing of Fisk, although he claimed that the shooting was done in self-defense. Josie Mansfield, a beautiful ex-actress, was believed to be the real cause of the tragedy.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." That is the way with a Cold. A few little doses of Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant often saves a long sickness, if not something more serious.

PUBLIC IS OUT OF THE MARKET

Refuses to Buy Stocks Until Financial Clouds Have Rolled Away.

Deferred Settlement of Northern Pacific Controversy Remains an Obstacle to Resumption of Confidence.

(By Private Wire to the Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Wall street last week was the victim of its famous inability to abide by a conclusion. It no sooner settled the Northern Pacific trouble as it should be settled, and to its own complete satisfaction, than it changed its mind and committed it all again. On Monday the circulation of a host of monstrous rumors put the bears in temporary control of the speculative situation, but within the next 24 hours the street got around to an entirely new point of view and worked itself up to such a high pitch of expectancy that many traders, although inwardly bearish, were afraid to go home short of the market lest a Morgan-Harriman agreement be announced over night. Between the swings of temper, from deep despondency to high hope and half way back again, the reluctant conviction that the Northern Pacific issue must be awaited with infinite patience, the professional element made the most of its opportunities and did pretty much as it pleased with the market. The public was sway, going about its own particular business, profitless thing to do—and room traders were forced to use their wits to fleece each other, a spectacle that led a floor wag to wonder what would happen if the public never came back, and the pools had at length to unload on each other.

Public Has Been Spoiled.

Indeed, there may be more truth than jest in the suggestion that the public has been spoiled. In the wild bull dance that culminated with the panic of May 9, all one had to do to beat the market was to buy, to buy always and buy any old thing and never to sell. That was easy. Everybody was beating the market. There was no secret about it. One day the public was horrified to find that things could go down as well as up, and faster, much faster down than up when once they started. Since the panic stocks have been going both up and down, and evidently the public doesn't feel that this is as it should be. Apparently the outsiders want another cinch market wherein everything will go up all the time, and apparently, too, the outsiders are disposed to wait for just that kind of a market, falling of which they propose to stay out, thank you.

Upon it being understood that the Northern Pacific settlement could not be reached alone, and that an announcement might not be forthcoming for many days, the financial situation was removed to its proper importance in market calculations. Quite the most striking developments of the week grew out of the unsatisfactory state of money, and they may be enumerated in the order in which they occurred as, first, the exportation of $3,850,000 gold to Paris; second, the advance of the Bank of England's rate of discount from 3 to 4 per cent, and third, the resumption of bond purchases by the United States treasury.

Gold Movement Abnormal.

The movement of gold from New York to Europe at this time is abnormal in itself. When there are added the considerations that New York bankers are "short" of exchange bills, and that the supply of bills created last week by the exportation of more cotton and grain than were ever exported in the corresponding week of any previous year, was not large enough to satisfy the bankers' demand for bills with which to cover maturing obligations, the situation becomes very extraordinary. Conditions in Europe are abnormal. The advance of the Bank of England's rate of discount was an unmistakable intimation that England has all she can to do to take care of herself. New York, therefore, has now the only available gold reserve, and the seemingly insatiable French demand will have to be satisfied here. So New York begins to pay the inevitable penalty for daring to become a world money center. The troubles of Europe shall henceforth trouble Wall street, and as a contemporary writer points out, depression abroad cannot be ignored in this country since any impairment of Europe's purchasing power infallibly would be reflected here. But in addition to being thus forced to share Europe's troubles, New York has peculiar troubles of her own.

Troubles of Financiers.

Not the least curious aspect of the complex financial situation is that some gentlemen who have been in daily conference over their Northern Pacific faux pas have had simultaneously to reflect that their operations, extravagant operations some say, were instrumental in bringing about the present stringency in money market. The exponents of community of interests had earlier in the year to borrow heavily in Europe in order to finance their magnificent deals, one of the most notable of which involved Northern Pacific, and precipitated a panic. Now they face the dilemma of paying with one hand for their new at home and with the other hand restoring the money they borrowed for their deals. It is only reasonable to expect that the menacing condition of the money market will lead the principals in the Northern Pacific dispute, not only to hasten the issue, but also to come about it peaceably if that is at all possible. Early this week it was intimated that an authoritative statement would be issued before the close of business Saturday, but yesterday at the office of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. they repeated the familiar assurances that negotiations were progressing nicely, but no statement was forthcoming. It may be stated on high authority, too, that while the principals thus far have conferred in a more or less friendly manner, they have been utterly unable to agree on essential details.

The Price of Money.

The average rate for call money last week was between 3½ and 4 per cent, or about ½ per cent higher than the range of the previous week. The indications are that call rates will range higher this week. Calculations in this respect as well as in respect to the probable course of the stock market are doubly difficult owing to the fact that Tuesday is a legal holiday, and business, therefore, will be suspended. Bankers may make avail of this to call loans with greater freedom on Monday, and accommodations probably would have to be renewed at higher rates.

The Pocohontas Coal and Coke Company, having on Friday last completed the land purchases originally contemplated, it is now negotiating for other properties. It now possesses 500,000 acres of coal lands, the completion of its purchases last week having added 70,000 acres to those involved in the transactions of the preceding week. The amount of money involved in Friday's transaction is not known.

Gotham Stock Market Irregular But Closes Firm

BANK SHOWING DISAPPOINTING

Starts Wall Street Speculators to Disposing of Their Holdings.

SUPPORTING ORDERS IN EVIDENCE

Despite Seemingly Unfavorable Conditions the Market Steadies and Closes at About Best Figures for the Day.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The stock market was spotty and irregular today, but made a firm closing at about the best, generally after the appearance of the week statement. Very large orders were placed in various stocks to effect the rally. The selling after the bank statement had been considerable, and the gains pretty well wiped out. Union Pacific was most prominent in the rally and was marked up to 103⅛ through many offerings of several thousand-share blocks each. The Southern Railway stocks, Baltimore & Ohio, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel preferred also rallied strongly, the last named rising a point over last night. St. Paul was notably heavy and rallied but feebly, dropping back to the lowest of the day just at the close. The general movement was narrow, but some less important stocks moved widely. Peoples Gas was sharply depressed. There was strength in Illinois Central and the St. Louis and Canadian Pacific stocks.

It was hoped that the gold exports, coming late in the week, would not figure for the full amount in the bank statement under the average system. But the cash decrease proved to be $1,500,000 in excess of the estimates. The loan item showed the process of loan expansion by the banks still heavily in force. The November dividends and sterling at Paris recovered a fraction. Further gold exports from New York next week are counted on as a practical certainty. The strong rally in Union Pacific at the close was accompanied by rumors that a statement of the terms of the Northern Pacific settlement was a possibility before trading was resumed on Monday.

Prices of stocks have drifted uncertainly during the whole of the past week, with no consistent movement defined at any time. The conflicting eddies in the pool of speculation have been due to movements of individual stocks under the influence of special causes. The prevailing impression among market observers has been one of dullness near to the record low level. For the first time this year the weekly transactions in stocks have fallen below the aggregate transactions for the corresponding period last year during one of the weeks of October, yet a survey of the transactions of the whole month reveals an aggregate of 14,023,147, compared with a total of 10,900,985 for October of last year, which was in turn the largest aggregate of transactions for any October in the previous 10 years. Sales of bonds for the October just ended amounted to a par value of $64,954,650, compared with $42,297,600 in October of last year, and $59,747,980 in October of 1899.

BIG SALE OF RIVER COAL BONDS AT CLOSE

Crucible Steel Issues Were a Shade Firmer and Higher—U. S. Steel Gained a Fraction — The Coal Stocks Were About Steady.

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange Saturday, for a half holiday, was fairly active, the sales being nearly 2,200 shares of stock and $100,000 bonds. The trading, however, was limited to a narrow list of securities and for this reason was lacking in interest. The tone, while still irregular, showed a slight improvement, being firmer, with a tendency toward a higher level of prices. The result was that out of the 14 different securities traded in, seven made advances ranging from ⅛ to ¾; five declined from ⅛ to ⅝ and two were unchanged. Thus it will be seen that the net changes were quite small. The greatest volume of business was in American Window Glass common, which, however, only sold 320 shares at 55⅝@56, the stock closing firmer at the top, a gain of ⅛. Thirty shares of the preferred sold at 90¾, a decline of ¾ and the lowest price in months. Crucible Steel issues were next in activity, though they were not nearly so lively as recently. The common closed steady at 23, a gain of ¼, and the preferred finished firm at 94⅝, also a gain of ¼. Of the common only 200 shares sold, and of the preferred 300. A block of 200 United States Steel common changed hands at 42¼, an advance of ¼, but the preferred was not quoted for regular lots during the day. The coal stocks were about steady, but dull. Pittsburgh Coal common sold 250 shares at 23¼@23⅝, the last price, and was in heavy demand at 23⅝. The preferred lost ⅛ at 92¼@92¾ for 203 shares. 62¾ was then bid for 500 shares. River coal preferred declined ¾ and sold for 41 before it closed. The common quoted unchanged at 12@13½. Consolidated Traction stocks were not mentioned, but the receipts for both issues were quoted at the current figures for the stock. Philadelphia common was a shade firmer at 47⅝ for 50 shares. This was a gain of ⅛, but the preferred was unchanged at 47 for 100. Fire Proofing issues were distinctly heavy. The preferred lost ½ at 92½@92¾ for 203 shares. 92¾ was then bid for 500 shares. River coal preferred declined ¾ and sold for 41 before it closed. The common quoted unchanged at 12@13½. Consolidated Traction stocks were not mentioned, but the receipts for both issues were quoted at the current figures for the stock. Philadelphia common was a shade firmer at 47⅝ for 50 shares. L READY FOR HE NEW TREATY ish Ambassador Brings raft of an Agreement on Isthmian Canal.

EAT BRITAIN HAS MADE CONCESSIONS

Pauncefote Will Probably See ecretary Hay Today--Opposition xpected When the Treaty Is rought Before the Senate.

(Special telegram to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)
ASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—From time hence for several weeks the erocanic canal problem will be the eat absorbing topic in Washington. rd Pauncefote, the British ambassador, ives with the draft of the new Hay-uncefote treaty in his pocket. He will bably call on Secretary Hay tomorrow the negotiations will begin. Meantime friends of the treaty expect that the z canal, the Panama canal, and the cific railroads will fight the ratification th and nail, and they may be able to at it in the senate unless the public mes to the rescue of its favorite Nicaagua route. To repeat an old adage, There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip," and the president and Secretary Hay will only feel relieved when the treaty is signed and the senate has ratified.

Official Washington has awaited eagerly the arrival of Lord Pauncefote, because of the momentous message he bears from his government. Before Ambassador Choate left London he was assured that the British government had made concessions which would remove the "most important" of the objections raised by the senate to the amended Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and these concessions had been approved by the British cabinet. The language of these concessions is naturally most important, and the officials will await with some impatience the British draft. That draft, as the officials expect, will be accepted without question. It will be written in treaty form, and then it will be signed by Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote. But if a comma is not in the place which Secretary Hay deems proper it will be necessary to take steps for its removal or to so transpose the provision in which it is placed that, while meeting the views of the executive, it will also be acceptable to Great Britain.

Convention May Be Signed Soon.

Congress assembles on December 2, less than a month hence. The negotiations have carried the treaty to such a point that, unless there is some question about the language employed in the British draft, there should be no reason why the treaty should not be signed before the beginning of the session. Once the language is agreed upon, it will be a matter of but a few hours for Sidney Smith, chief of the diplomatic bureau of the state department, to engross the treaty upon the parchment sheets usually employed, and when the negotiators meet to append their signatures the two copies can be compared and signed.

In the views which Secretary Hay and the British government have exchanged the former has kept constantly in mind the objections raised by the senate to the original treaty, and has endeavored to meet them by framing provisions acceptable to the London cabinet and to the ratifying power in the United States. In the official negotiations Mr. Hay will not fail to observe the same policy. He has induced the British government to agree to the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, the provision in the treaty forbidding the erection of fortifications has been eliminated, and finally the neutrality of the canal is guaranteed solely by this government. These are important concessions, but there is no disposition on the part of the administration to brag about them. They were made to the United States because the London cabinet is sincerely desirous of maintaining cordial relations with the American republic.

Pacific Railroads May Fight.

The Suez canal company and the Pacific railroad interests are supposed to be against any canal, but they are glad to have the assistance of the Panama company, which will suffer ruin if the Nicaragua canal project is officially adopted by the Washington government.

The Colombian government has claimed that the Panama canal could be constructed by the United States without any modification of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty or the negotiation of any new treaty between the United States and Great Britain. Rather than have congress appropriate money for the construction of the Nicaragua canal, the Panama company would prefer the status quo in canal legislation maintained.

A dispatch from London says that the secretary-general of the Suez Canal Company denies that his company is antagonistic to the Nicaragua project, or that it has ever taken any steps to prevent either that or the Panama scheme from being carried out. He adds that the Suez company may even benefit by the general development of the traffic that the opening of a canal across the American isthmus may cause. The British foreign office denies the deduction that the new treaty in any way reaffirms or extends the scope of the Monroe doctrine.

PHILIPPINE MAIL TOO SLOW.

Recommend Faster Service to the Orient—Asked for Improvements in Distribution of Mail.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—The annual report of Second Assistant Postmaster William S. Shallenberger, made public to-day, urges regular, direct, fast mail service between the Pacific coast and the orient, the re-establishment of pneumatic tube service generally and the closer separation of city mail by postal clerks on railway trains rather than by clerks of the mailing division after its arrival in the general postoffice. Mr. Shallenberger suggests a test of the last proposition at postoffices where the gross receipts are over $500,000 a year, by having the incoming mail delivered by the railway mail service properly made up for the carriers.

The postoffice department has no contract for direct mail service between the Pacific coast and the Philippines, mails being carried by government troops or by steamers to Hong Kong and thence by steamers of other countries to Manila. "It now seems probable," says the report, "that if this government should withdraw its transports, as may be done at any time, with the understanding that its passenger and fast freight traffic, together with the increasing volume of its mails, might go to the steamship company that would submit the most satisfactory proposal for quick and regular service, a favorable contract could be secured. The mail service and commercial interests would be greatly advanced by fast mail steamers adhering strictly to schedule time between the Pacific coast and Manila and calling at other ports at regular intervals under contract with this government."

The request for $500,000 appropriation for pneumatic service is renewed, as a basis for the beginning of the service which, when fully established, it is stated, will involve an annual expenditure of approximately $800,000. The report shows that on June 30 last there were 267,857 miles of star route service, 183,358 of railroad routes, 45,779 of railway postoffice car routes and almost 3,000 miles of electric and cable car routes. The annual rate of expenditure for all classes of domestic mail transporation service has increased $6,940,285 since last year. It is contemplated that the new contracts for star mail service, beginning next July, shall provide for delivering mail into boxes along nearly all of the routes. The practice of granting to contractors general permission to sub-let their star route service has been discontinued. There were 825 casualties in the railway mail service during the year.

End of Commission in Sight.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—The industrial commission will cease to exist on December 15 by operation of law. The members of the commission are now at home, mostly to vote in the coming state elections. A full meeting of the commission will be held next Wednesday and the commission probably will remain in session most of the month, going over its final report. This will be embodied in one volume and will be submitted to congress about the time the official existence of the commission expires.

FUSION WEAK IN OLD BUTLER

Disgruntled Republicans and Their Allies Have Slender Chances.

MANY DEMOCRATS ARE OPPOSED TO CORAY

Stalwarts Are Sure of a Fair Plurality — Preparations Already Being Made for the Fight in the County Next Year.

BY WALTER J. CHRISTY,
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, PA., Nov. 3.—A fusion victory in Butler this fall is hardly within the range of possibilities. There is an attempt being made to cut the Republican ticket, but the "soap-stone" county will give a majority of 800. This is about a normal off-year plurality.

There was a time when the insurgents were a power in Butler, but the majority of them have seen the error of their way and returned to the stalwart party. James N. Moore, their old leader, is now regular, and is giving Democracy no assistance this fall. Some of the Republicans who have failed to capture public office have taken stock in the Union party. They are learning that the Democrats are giving them a gold brick and are sorry that they have allowed themselves to be fooled.

If there had not been a judicial contest in sight next year, Butler county would not have had a fusion ticket. Lev McQuiston and some other Democrats who would like to get the seat on the bench held by Judge John M. Greer, conceived the idea of fusion. They figured that if a fight could be started in the Republican party, it would be easier to get a straight Democrat or fusion candidate for judge through next year. The game has not worked so well as anticipated, but the failure does not hurt McQuiston and his friends so much as it does the kicking Republicans.

Murphy Heads Fusion Ranks.

There is a district attorney and a clerk of courts to be elected Tuesday. For the former place Elmer E. Young of Butler is the Republican nominee. The regular candidate for clerk of courts is W. H. Campbell of Concord township. He was appointed to the position to fill a vacancy and then secured his nomination at the primaries.

The Democrats nominated John R. Henninger for district attorney and James McKee for clerk of courts. Some time afterward McQuiston decided that a Union party would be a good thing. For a time the parentage of the infant was unknown. It was at last discovered that Frank Murphy, whose father failed to get enough votes to make him the Republican nominee for assemblyman last year, was chairman of the new organization. His close adviser and the other member of the party is Levi M. Wise, who was twice defeated for the nomination for district attorney and was last year turned down by the Republicans of the county when he sought their indorsement for senator. They report to Lev McQuiston and J. D. Marshall, bosses of the fragment of the Democratic party.

After the organization of the Union party, McQuiston ordered McKee off the ticket and told Murphy and Wise to put George M. Graham on for clerk of courts. According to the records, Mr. Graham was a candidate at the Republican primaries three times and has suffered a trio of defeats. He tried to be the regular Republican nominee for clerk of courts, but Mr. Campbell was too strong for him. McQuiston has no interest in the candidacy of Graham, but thinks that fusion may help Henninger. He is also doing some work for Yerkes, but is not active for Coray. The entire campaign against the Republican party is being conducted with a view to helping the Democracy in the judicial contest of next year.

Many Democrats for McKee.

There are many Democrats in Butler who are indignant because McKee was kicked off the ticket. The grievance also spreads to the nomination of Coray for state treasurer. They argue that if they cannot have a straight Democratic candidate, they are not bound to support candidates of the mongrel type. The result will be many stay-at-home Democrats, and numerous others who will cut their ticket, believing that when it comes to a choice between two Republicans, they will vote for the regular nominee.

James N. Moore says that he will support the regular state and county tickets. He has no connection with the Union party movement, and is not in sympathy with it. Joseph Criswell was a candidate for assembly at the same time Murphy's father failed to win and met a similar fate. Mr. Criswell is a Republican, however, and announces that he is for the whole Republican ticket.

Robert McFarland, the Republican chairman, has attended to all of the details. He has a perfect organization in the county and expects to have a good vote. The regular Republican leaders are all giving him assistance.

Preparing for the Next Battle.

The fight in the county next year cannot help but be interesting. In addition to a judge, a congressman, two assemblymen, sheriff, prothonotary, treasurer, register and recorder and county commissioners are to be elected. There are many candidates in the field and others are expected to enter the contest after the election of Tuesday.

On the Republican side Judge John M. Greer will be a candidate for re-election. From present indications his principal opponent will be James M. Galbreath. Frank Bowser and H. H. Goucher are also mentioned. Democratic judicial timber will be offered in the persons of Lev. McQuiston and A. E. Reiber. W. A. Forquer may run. Reiber has been picked as the strong man.

The new apportionment puts Butler and Westmoreland in the same congressional district. It is generally conceded that the Republican nomination will go to Westmoreland. W. S. Van Dyke is at present prominently mentioned in that county. In Butler A. M. Christy will attempt to get the indorsement. It is reported that Dr. Joseph Showalter, the present congressman, will be in the field again. He has been elected three times in the old district.

Butler county usually gives her members of the lower house at Harrisburg two terms. Representatives James B. Mates and Nelson H. Thompson were there last session and will ask to be returned. So far no one has appeared against them.

MURDER AT SEA.

Sailors' Quarrel on a Coasting Schooner Ends in Fatal Stabbing of One.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 3.—The schooner Thomas Wissmore, from Brunswick, Ga., with a cargo of yellow pine lumber, arrived here today and reported a murder among her crew on the high sea.

Capt. Conwell said that on November 1, off the Virginia coast, Daniel Brown of Turks island, W. I., and Davis Loremer of Nassau, W. I., got into a quarrel over some trifling matter in connection with the stowing of an anchor. Before they could be separated Brown had stabbed Loremer three times. The victim died almost instantly. The other members of the crew had considerable difficulty in placing the murderer in irons and he had to be literally clubbed into subjection.

On the arrival of the schooner Brown was turned over to the police and Loremer was sent to the morgue. A couple of other sailors were held by the police as witnesses.

To Guard Against the Plague.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—There were no advices today to the marine hospital service from its representatives in Liverpool or Glasgow regarding the bubonic plague. The officials will exert every effort to prevent the introduction of the plague into the United States, to which end there will be earnest co-operation by the national and state authorities. Already there are in existence regulations for the examination of persons suspected of having plague symptoms, and these will be supplemented if necessary.
